As French Fliers Reached Goal On Non-Stop At'ant'c Flight

Carried on the shoulders of the crowd on arrival at Curtiss Field, Long Island, after successfully completing the transatlantic flight from Paris to New York, Captain Dieudonne Coste, French ace, receives a welcome comparable to that tendered Lindbergh at the close of his memorable Paris flight. Coste, with Maurice Bellonte, who only received his pilot's license this year, were the first to make a non-stop flight to New York City over the westward course.

Flight From Paris To New York City Made In 37 Hours And 19 Minutes

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Captain Dieudonne Coste, often called the "Lindbergh of France" and the "D'Artagnan of the Air," and his copilot, Maurice Bellonte, today modestly accepted the homage of the world in recognition of their historical achievement in making the first direct non-stop flight from Paris to New York. They made the epochal journey in 37 hours and nineteen minutes, triumphing magnificently over the elements which sent Nungesser and Colt, their fellow countrymen, and eight others who hazarded the westward argosy across the Atlantic to their death.

Fifty years is a long long time, when you're looking that far ahead, but fifty years looking backwards on time, isn't much when the thing's done and said. And two folks I know claim it isn't so long at least it seems short to them now, and the reason I found when I asked them just why it seemed short, for they told me just how. They've been married that long, which I have to confess is quite a long time it would seem, but the lady in question just laughed when she said it seemed little more than a dream. Fifty years they've been wed, and they're still mighty young, and both of them long ways from through, for they've managed to laugh at the man with the scythe, the weather, up some, eighty two.

Girl's Offer To Marry Any Man For $8,000 Brings Her Only Grief

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Gertrude Schrader, 18-year-old Pittsburgh girl who visualized a life of luxury in a Buffalo mansion through her offer to marry any man who would settle $8,000 on her in order to pay her family's bills and cure her father's blindness, saw her dreams shattered in police court today when her Buffalo "benefactor" was charged with passing worthless checks. Several weeks ago Gertrude attempted to insert an advertisement in a New York newspaper, offering herself in marriage to the man who would produce the $8,000. The advertisement was refused but the offer became public.

Then came Louis M. Smith, 40, of Buffalo, in the form of a "Fairy Prince" who paid the bills and gallantly offered the family his chauffeur, his car and his bank account, without once proposing marriage, Miss Schrader said.

The bubble burst last night when Smith was arrested while he was helping the Schrader family pack their belongings for a trip to Buffalo and his "mansion" today. Three detectives, posing as moving men, took Smith into custody on a charge of passing "bouncing" checks.

The checks which the Buffalo man is charged with having passed out so generously were for $140 for back rent; $250 for a furniture bill; $60 to a local department store; $30 to the grocer and $10 due a doctor.

The girl said Smith promised her a 13-room home in Buffalo.

Mail Plane Hits Barn At Mercer

Pilot Escapes Serious Injury In Early Morning Mishap

FLIER WAS MAKING LANDING AT FIELD

(Special To The News)
MERCER, Pa., Sept. 3.—An airmail plane of the National Air Transit company traveling to New York from Cleveland was destroyed early this morning when it struck a barn at the edge of Mercer air field.

The pilot, Charles W. Haas, 44, who was bringing his plane down to get a weather report, escaped with only a cut lip and minor bruises. He was treated at Mercer hospital.

As the plane neared the ground at 2:55 a. m. a wing struck the barn of George Tate and crashed to the ground. A relief plane arrived at the field at 7 a. m. and took the mail to New York.

World-Wide Interest Shown As 33-Year-Old Polar Region Tragedy Is Unfurled

(International News Service)
TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 3.—A report of absorbing world wide interest was to be issued today by the Norwegian-Swedish expert commission charged with the task of unravelling the 33-year old circumstances surrounding the fatal balloon expedition to the North Pole begun by Solomon Augustee Andree, Nils Strindberg and Knute Frankel.

Bones of Polar Bear Preliminary investigation of the skeleton remains and bones discovered on White Island in the Arctic Ocean and brought here in the Whaler Bratvaag by Dr. Gunnar Horn definitely established the identification of two skeletons as respectively those of Andree and Strindberg. The bones at first believed to have been those of Frankel were held for closer examination following opinion of some of the experts that they were those of a Polar bear.

Identification of Andree's remains was established through the monogram "A" on the ice-cracked coat (Continued On Page Two)

Brewery Equipment Stolen From Police

Lorain, Ohio, Police Looking For Thieves Who Stole Brewery Equipment

(International News Service)
LORAIN, O., Sept. 3.—Police here today were seeking two truckloads of brewery equipment stolen last night from a yard adjoining the police station where it was being stored. Police chief Theodore Walker ordered the entire force to search for the thieves after the loss was discovered by Simon Austin, safety director. Returning from a raid on the Columbus Hotel here Saturday, officers found they had confiscated more beer making paraphernalia than the station cellar could accommodate. The overflow was dumped in a yard adjoining from where it was taken.

According to the police chief only one man is on duty at the station during the night and should some plover attempt to steal material stored in the yard detection would be practically impossible.

As an aftermath to the robbery Mayor Paul J. Goldthorpe ordered police hereafter to destroy all liquor making apparatus and implements which they confiscate in raids.

Paris Goes Wild As Fliers Land In United States

Frenzied Joy And Emotion Everywhere In France For Coste And Bellonte

WIVES ARE HAPPY FLIGHT SUCCESSFUL

(International News Service)
PARIS, Sept. 3.—Paris was in a holiday mood today, vibrant and scintillating with festive gaiety after its display of frenzied joy and emotion over the feat of Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte on flying for the first time in history the distance from here to New York without a stop or mishap.

Frenchmen and tourists paraded the boulevards in arm, tiny tin-tricolored and miniature stars and stripes as plentifully evident in button holes and handbags as were the larger drapeau flapping lazily in the breeze on buildings and streets. The sidewalks were crowded, with men and women vociferously toasting the gallant fliers and the courage which pushed them on in their hazardous venture.

The names of Captain Coste, France's premier flying ace and "D'Artagnan of Aviation," and Maurice Bellonte pervaded the very atmosphere, and there was hardly a place of vantage or business that did not present the pictures of the fliers and their sesquiplane "Question Mark."

Down the boulevards paraded the military bands, playing "La Marseillaise" and "The Star Spangled Banner" with an enthusiasm that refused to be dampened by continued marching and jostling from the pressing throngs. Sabered cuirassiers and squads of gendarmes, wearing (Continued On Page Two)

Walter Mora Charged With Manslaughter In Jefferson Winston Death

Mrs. Verdie Winston has made an information before Alderman Mantz charging Walter Mora of Chewton with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of her husband, Jefferson Winston, who was killed in an auto accident last Saturday evening.

Winston was repairing a tire on the Wampum-Ellwood road when the Mora car crashed into him. There is some question as to where the Winston car was parked, whether on or off the concrete. Mora furnished bail for a hearing before Alderman Mantz on next Monday evening.

Three women who were in the Mora car and who were injured are reported to be on the way to recovery, although they were seriously injured. Coroner J. P. Caldwell will hold an inquest at the office of Seure James Glover in Wampum on Thursday evening.

Captain Coste Is Flier Who Was Forced Down Near Here Three Years Ago

Dieudonne Coste, intrepid French flier, who with Maurice Bellonte, completed a non-stop flight from Paris to New York last evening, is known to several local folks, who met Coste when he was forced down at Sharpville, Pa., three years ago last April, while flying around the world.

Coste's flying companion on that occasion was a man named Lebrun, who has since been killed in an air crash.

Coste and Lebrun became lost during a heavy snowstorm while flying over the local district. They circled the village of Volant several times, looking for a favorable landing place and finally reached a point near Sharpville, where they felt it was safe to descend.

They were unable to get their plane started again and spent several days in Sharon until mechanics could be rushed to the field from New York. They were the guests of World War veterans of Sharon, who staged an impromptu celebration for them and feted them royally while they were marooned in the Mercer county field. They also assisted them in getting started on their way again.

Coste and Lebrun were met on this occasion by Charles E. Allen of The News staff, who was associated with a Sharon newspaper when the above event occurred. Harry L. Allen and sons Charles and Eugene also saw Coste at the time, while other residents of New Castle and vicinity drove to Sharpville to see the plane which had travelled around the world and spanned the lower reaches of the Atlantic on that memorable flight.

Coste is a veteran of the French flying corps during the World war.

TAHOE TAVERN, Cal., Sept. 3.—Hurrah for the Frenchmen. They sure deserved it and the nation did, for they had made so many sacrifices, and during their well deserved plaudits, it seems rather a coincidence that Andree's body is being returned to civilization. When you write your list of air heroes, put that fellow at the top, not because his name begins with an A, but when he shoved off in that thing 33 years ago, he knew that even if he got where he was going there was not going to be any cheering crowds, or reporters, or Grover Whalers. He was the original chance taker in the air, and no man will ever take as big a one.

You're the JUDGE

The truck of a scrap-iron dealer was standing in front of the shop on one of the side streets in a large middle western city. The truck was loaded to the top with iron.

The truck attracted the attention of a little boy in the street who seeing two of his friends across the way, called to them to come over and play. One of them climbed up on the truck and in some manner dislodged a chunk of iron which slipped off and struck one of his little playmates on the leg, inflicting a serious injury. The injured boy, through his father, filed suit against the scrap-iron owner for damages.

At the trial the scrap-iron yard owner argued that one of the boys was meddling where he should not have been and so was an intervening agency to the injury. He pleaded that the other two boys, with the one injured, had joined in the common cause, unlawfully to meddle with the truck.

tracks on Highland avenue before winter arrives. Bricks are projecting along the tracks for several blocks in the vicinity of Norwood avenue, and should be leveled down.

Despite the drought of the past summer, reports of extra large peaches, extra large tomatoes, corn, etc., are reaching Pa. News.

Summer is not over yet, even though September has been reached. The weather last night was just about as hot as any night of the summer.

Pa. News saw an auto license on a car yesterday reading JR83. It wasn't on a bantam car either.

For the first time in several weeks, the mercury touched the 90 degree mark yesterday afternoon, a hot sun following on the heels of the rainy spell which held the city in its grip over Labor Day.

Good progress is being made on the Bell Telephone conduit system which is being placed up Mercer street. The conduit is being placed under the sidewalk on the east side of the street, which are now torn up about half way up the hill.

Local firemen appreciated the opening of Grant street Sunday evening, when they responded to an alarm on Knox street. The Central fire ladders rolled along quickly without being forced to watch for innumerable holes along the street, saving many precious moments.

Pa. News hopes that some of the highway officials who were responsible for the repaving of Crotona, the enue and Grant street, will now take a ride out along East Washington street. For a street which was repaved in recent years, it is in terrible condition.

This weather is not just what would be termed prime football weather. If the fall is to be one excessively hot, it will be a fine thing that the early games here are to be played at night, for it is much cooler than in the mid-afternoon.

New bridge across the Ohio river at Rochester, which has been in the course of construction for several years, has been opened to traffic. It replaces the old suspension type of bridge that has served at Rochester for many long years.

It's a peculiar thing, nevertheless a fact, that many people in this locality do not know how to spell "Niagara Falls." Many communications that are received at The News telling of trips to the falls have Niagara misspelled.

Two chunks of concrete parted from the head-wall at the intersection of the Perry Highway with the New Castle-Franklin highway at Harlansburg, as the result of two crashes that occurred at the same spot two weeks ago and on the afternoon of Labor Day. Lets hope that motorists will be more careful of that poor cement head-wall.

and distinguished persons in all lines of endeavor, hailed the feat as one of the most remarkable in the annals of aviation. The entire world sang the praises of the two daring French flyers. More than ever, Coste stands forth among aviators as a beau ideal—a perfect combination of dash and prudence, courage and fortitude, experience and technical skill.

Greeted by Lindbergh

"A great flight, admirably executed," was the enthusiastic comment of Colonel Lindbergh as he stood on the tarmac of one of the hangars at the Curtiss Airport and watched Coste's powerful, scarlet hued plane, the "Question Mark," swoop in from the east through the gathering dusk and come to a perfect landing in the dead center of the field as 10,000 spectators roared a tumultuous welcome.

Coste and Bellonte covered 6,500 kilometers, about 4,100 miles, and when they landed at 7:13 p. m. they had 100 gallons of gasoline left, sufficient for nearly three hours more of flight.

Colonel Lindbergh's eastward crossing of the Atlantic on that never-to-be-forgotten solo hop from New York to Paris was made in faster time than Coste and Bellonte negotiated the western flight but, because of the obstacle of severe headwinds, the westward jump is generally regarded as the more difficult. Lindbergh, in May 1927, flew from New York to Paris in 33 hours and 29 minutes, which was 3 hours and 50 minutes quicker than the two Frenchmen made the westward flight from Paris to New York.

Reception Today

A civic reception by the City of New York was tentatively set for this afternoon. The details of program were held in abeyance, however, until the wishes of Coste and Bellonte were consulted today. The flyers, tired but happy, retired last night in their suite in the Ritz Towers and did not plan to leave their rooms until late this morning. They were exhausted at the completion of their flight and were badly in need of rest.

A great cheer, growing in volume, swept across the field, as the "Question Mark" hove into the sight and came to earth after circling the airport several times. The moment Coste and Bellonte raised their heads out of the cockpit and stepped over the fuselage they were picked up on the shoulders of their compatriots and carried to one of the hangars which a small army of bluecoats tried, ineffectually to beat back the crowd that had stamped through the police lines.

Crowd Goes Wild

Amid the booming of photographers' flashlights and past dozens of flares that had been lit, Coste and Bellonte were half carried, half struggled to every body in sight to them, to pat them on the back and to personally show their appreciation in no uncertain manner.

First fights broke out between police and spectators as the officers tried to reestablish order. Plans to take the flyers to the Curtiss Airport office in the abandoned warehouse, where the plane was to be taken, were abandoned. The flyers were taken to the hotel where they were to stay.

STAR LORE
OF GREAT INTEREST TO SCHOOL BOYS AND GIRLS

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter

The Adler Planetarium in Chicago is becoming a mecca of every school boy and girl who can possibly find a way to visit this starry universe projected on the inside of the dome that gives one the impression of sitting under the open heavens.

The planetarium is patterned after German models. The apparent daily motion of the stars is shown. The heavens are presented as seen from any latitude north or south of the equator, or in such positions as they occupied ages ago, as when the Southern Cross was visible in England six thousand years ago. The planets also move through the belt of the zodiac.

COOPER JUDGE AT ILLINOIS FAIR

Judges Horses At Largest State Fair Exhibition In The United States

Thomas Cooper of Harlansburg, one of the most noted horse breeders in the country, has just returned from Springfield, Ill., where he acted as judge of the horse exhibits held in connection with the state fair during the latter part of August.

The Illinois fair is one of the largest fairs held in the middle west and the recent exposition was one of the finest ever held, attracting agricultural leaders and stock breeds from all over the country.

The honor bestowed on Mr. Cooper in being named one of the judges, shows the high esteem in which he is held as a judge of horses as the Illinois State Fair probably "the greatest of its kind held in the United States."

Mr. Cooper stated that the fair this year attracted a great many breeders of various kinds of stock, conditions being better in Illinois than many other sections of the middle west.

Wives Are Happy

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The high tide of emotion which swept the French capital engulfed in its whirling current today pretty little Mary Coste, blue-eyed Georgian princess and wife of Captain Dieudonne Coste, and Mme. Bellonte, charming English wife of Maurice Bellonte.

"Merci, merci," murmured Mme. Bellonte repeatedly as hosts of friends rushed to her suburban home at Viroflay to congratulate her. "It is simply too wonderful. She met and married Bellonte while he was a mechanic on the Paris-Crotona line. The couple have one small daughter."

Blue-eyed Mme. Coste, first informed by International News Service of her husband's safe arrival in New York, was overcome with joy. Dressed in a simple grey silk blouse with a white tweed skirt, she sat in her apartment near the telephone all day to follow avidly all reports of her husband's progress.

"I am so proud of my husband," she wept. "Of course I have always had great confidence in him and knew he would succeed."

"I have always wanted to see the United States, and now, naturally, I am going. I will be there only a week as I have a motion picture contract to fill here. Then I am going back again. My husband will be there five months on a tour through the country."

Commission Hears Pennsy Proposal To Acquire Road

Seeks Right To Continue Operation Of Part Of Sharpville Line

Before members of the Pennsylvania Public Service commission at Pittsburgh today, the application of the Pennsylvania railroad to acquire that section of the abandoned Sharpville railroad extending from Wilmington Junction to the town of New Wilmington, is being heard.

Only recently the commission granted the Sharpville reversioners the right to abandon its line. However, residents of the college town desire to have the line as far as New Wilmington continued, and the Pennsy has asked for that right.

Among those expected to take the stand at the hearing today was Division Operator J. C. Hanrahan, representative of the Erie and Ashtabula division. Several New Wilmington residents were also to testify.

frozen about one skeleton; Stringberg's identifications was established with the help of relatives and teeth fillings.

Frankel, the experts feared, failed to resist for very long the cruel northern blasts, succumbing while the party was fighting its way back to White Island after the balloon sank into the icy wastes some 200 miles to the north. He may have fallen into one of the innumerable crevices or died of exposure; his remains may still be floating in the bleak region around White Island.

New Diary Found

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3.—The discovery of a new diary kept by Salomon Auguste Andree on his fatal balloon expedition to the Arctic 33 years ago which is expected to reveal hitherto unexpected details of the Argosy was announced today in an official communique issued by the Norwegian-Swedish expert commission.

The announcement was the first provisional report given out by the two Swedish scientists, Professors Hedren and Lithberg, who were sent to Tromsø to examine the remains of the expedition brought to Tromsø by the Norwegian Whaler Bratstad.

The new diary, written in pencil and easily readable from the first page to the last, the communique said, is a daily record of the little expedition's dreary march across the icepack from the point at which Andree's balloon came down to White Island, and it is from the records contained within the covers of this book that the scientists hope to be able to give an authentic account of just what happened to the explorers.

Describing their examination of the expedition's remains, the professors' reports said: "The organic parts of the human remains were greatly decomposed, but the clothing was more or less well preserved."

From the initials sewn into the clothing, it appears that the remains are those of Andree and Stringberg, of the men themselves only the skeletons remain. Andree's clothing had been torn, probably by polar bears.

Under a coat which was spread over the upper part of the body we found a number of pieces of clothing and a cap. At the right of the body we found a folded sweater and, enclosed in oilcloth, inside, were two notebooks.

"One of these contained writing on the first few pages only, in the form of observations. The second was a diary of the march across the icepack, which undoubtedly will be the chief document to be consulted in solving the fate of the expedition. The second book was written from first to last page in pencil, and was easily readable."

The contents or excerpts from the notations in the newly discovered diary were not noted in the communique, but from the wording of the professors' announcement sprang the hope that in this small book may be found a complete record of the expedition's wanderings, and the fate of the third member of Andree's party, Frankel, whose remains were not found on White Island.

In view of the announcement that the first "provisional report" of the scientists' findings, hope was held out that a more complete and detailed announcement would be forthcoming during the day.

Army Nurse Will Visit Relatives

Miss Mabel G. May, who has been in the nursing service at U. S. Government hospitals since 1914, will arrive early next week for a visit with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Zeigler of Whippoorwill.

Miss May spent four years in the Walter Reed hospital in Washington, and for the past four years has been stationed in the Hawaiian Islands.

While there she was taken seriously ill with a heart condition and for a time, was critically ill. She has recovered her health again, however, and has just returned from a tour of China, landing recently in San Francisco.

FRENCH FLIERS SUCCEED

Captain Dieudonne Coste, and Maurice Bellonte, daring and experienced French fliers landed their airplane, "The Question Mark," at Curtis Field last night, shortly before dusk, completing the first non-stop flight from Paris to New York city in the world's history.

It was a remarkable flight, and one that goes to show what proper preparation and adequate training, along with the right kind of a plane can accomplish in this day of aviation.

Many fliers had tried this trip heretofore, and all had failed. Some did land on this side of the Atlantic, but many were lost, never to be heard of again. The flight from Paris to New York is regarded as much more difficult than the flight from New York to Paris, because of the direction of the air currents.

The trip of the successful French fliers was one that tested every ounce of their ability, every bit of their skill, and proved them to be navigators of the air of almost a super-man type.

All America is glad that they have accomplished this difficult feat. Colonel Lindbergh, American Ace, who made the flight from New York to Paris, alone, was one of the first to greet the French fliers after they landed in New York, and the greeting of the New York crowd was almost a parallel to that given Lindbergh when he landed in Paris after his epochal flight.

Both flights, Lindy to Paris, and the Frenchmen from Paris to New York, demonstrate that ocean flying can be successfully negotiated when done by fliers who are sufficiently trained for the task, understand the flying conditions, understand their planes, and have at least an even break with the weather.

Ocean flying is no project for novices, as some have been, who have sailed out over the Atlantic to oblivion.

Plaudits of the world are justly deserved by Captain Coste and his companion. They prepared properly—they achieved.

WHY NOT?

In the past few days the investigating senator from North Dakota Gerald P. Nye has been complaining in loud stentorian tones that someone has been investigating him, following him around so to speak. The senator has taken umbrage at the idea, quite a lot of umbrage in fact and has wasted few words in expressing his opinion of such tactics.

Going directly to the point, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee for the United States Senate from Illinois admits that she employed agents to investigate Senator Nye, and then naively inquires "what is he going to do about it?"

All of which seems to be a timely question. What is Senator Nye going to do about it, and what is there to do anyway? For the past year or two Senator Nye has done little else than investigate something or other. At a large expense, paid of course by the taxpayers, he has jaunted back and forth over the country, prying into the affairs of states.

Surely Senator Nye is not above investigation. Certainly he cannot complain if some of the citizens of the states in which he has done his snooping, return the complaint. And of course it must be remembered that the investigation conducted by Mrs. McCormick is being done at her own expense, not the taxpayers.

Investigate Senator Nye? Why not? Who is he and what is he that we must take, per se, his actions and like the actions of Caesar's wife, regard them as above suspicion.

If his actions are blameless, then the investigation will do no harm. If there is some reason for investigation then it may do some good. In either event, the gentleman from North Dakota has little cause to complain.

SAFETY WEEK

It seems a paradox that the United States is recognized as a world leader in accident prevention when our country has the highest accidental death rate of any country on earth. The only answer is that we Americans live and work to the beat of a faster "tempo." We speed and rush in our work, in all things we do. We have the most factories and the largest factories; we have the most motor cars; we are engaged in more hazardous pursuits than those living in slower moving countries.

So it is necessary for us to give much thought to safety. If our factories are hazardous we must devise safeguards. With traffic accidents claiming thousands of lives we must get busy and perfect a remedy.

"Safety Week" in Western Pennsylvania will approach the problem from an educational viewpoint. It should develop a safety consciousness in all of us so that we will be ready and willing to co-operate in the activities which safety engineers tell us will make our nation safer.

Sympathy seekers deserve much more than they get.

Great Wars Bring Changes.
Critiquing the President.
Some of the Sermons.
Magic Words, Gold, Treasure.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1930, King Features
Syn., Inc.)

After a great war important changes occur in government and "social systems".

One hundred and sixteen British bankers and manufacturers implore Great Britain to stick to and maintain free trade, and not be stamped into protection and retaliation.

Another group of bankers had urged "free trade within the empire, protection against outside competition."

Dr. Butler of Columbia University, worrying about Russian experiments in government, which shows that he is an intelligent conservative, says this country should show "tolerance for Russia's colossal experiment."

Russia will go ahead, whether we are tolerant or intolerant.

A new social concept is needed to meet the challenge and menace of Russia, says Dr. Butler, declaring:

"Humanity must now reconsider fundamental social justice."

If Russia has forced that conclusion on the world she has done a great deal.

To change our ideas of government sufficiently to meet the "Soviet challenge" would require a complete change.

Stalin, and those that govern Russia with him, seek to give everything possible to those who do the work.

Here, as everybody knows, the men in power give those that do the work as much as will keep them working.

The real effort of those that govern is to increase their own gigantic fortunes and thus increase their power.

There is an element against Russia's "colossal experiment" that Dr. Butler for the moment ignores, and that is human selfishness.

Revolutionists begin by working for the masses, and end by accumulating wealth and power for themselves.

Republicans are already predicting loss of seats in the House and Senate. The vote will show what voters think about the prosperity slump.

Father J. A. Ryan of Catholic University does not hold President Hoover accountable for the stock market collapse, or the financial depression, but he does say in the "Commonweal" that President Hoover is sinking in public esteem.

He finds it necessary to criticize President Hoover for things done and things left undone, and finds that the President lacks superior qualities attributed to him before election.

President Hoover perhaps knows that this attack is part of a program that will increase in intensity from now until 1932.

It is an interesting duty, and worth while to read as many sermons as possible on Monday, having listened to at least one on Sunday.

In one Sunday's preaching these suggestions are offered:

To make profit your ideal is perilous. Millions out of work prove that our social plan is a failure. The Golden Rule would remedy the trouble.

Labor should be happier—the song has been taken from the worker's lips.

The worker is getting more money now than he ever did. Perhaps it is his automobile installment that takes the song from his lips.

The "spiritual racketeer" with "only contempt for the Bible" worries one clergyman.

Another suggests that society be rebuilt on "plans and specifications of Jesus the carpenter."

A clergyman from Australia, the Rev. Dr. Morris, says the "life of the spirit" would give us everything we need.

Gold and treasure, the words that excite nearly all men.

Italian divers clad in iron, going down 400 feet to the bottom of the Atlantic and up again as rapidly as swift elevators in our skyscrapers, have discovered the British treasure ship Egypt, with $5,000,000 of gold and silver in her hull, lying on the gray sand on the ocean's floor.

No difficulty in persuading Italian divers to go 400 feet down. They would go to the earth's center if Mussolini ordered it, and they could get there.

A small earthquake was felt in Tennessee, buildings rocked in Harrison and Rockwood, no harm done. And eastern newspapers treat it as a small earthquake.

If that little quake had occurred on the Pacific coast, eastern newspapers would have made it conspicuous and serious, not through meanness, but because of foolishness.

Chicago has a new racket. Three hundred top golf courses are informed that they "must come across" or be made unsafe for ambitious golfers.

That was tried in New York, but Police Commissioner Mulrooney found a way to discourage the idea.

Civic bodies in Chicago united "to put a stop to the Capone-Baker racketeer control, which takes $300,000 a week out of Chicago business men." That is only one small item in Chicago's crime budget, and it amounts to $15,000,000 a year. The wonder is what the racketeers do with all their money.

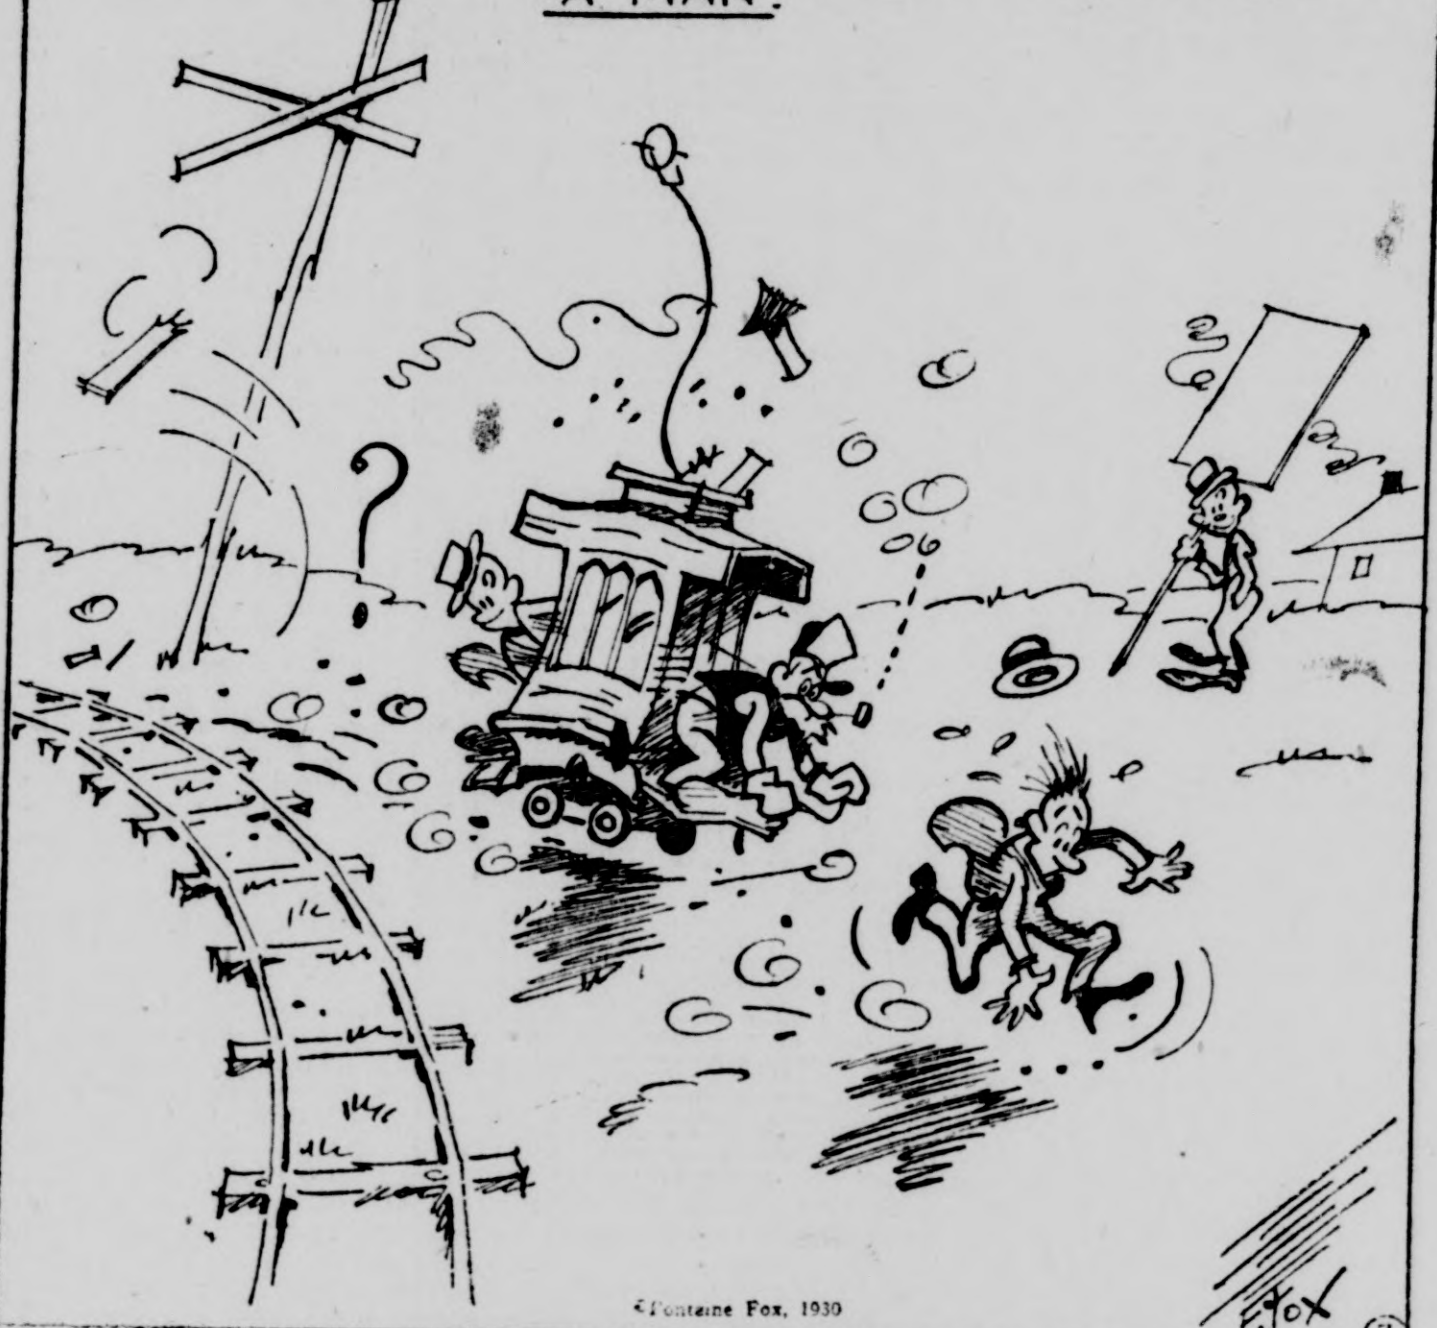

This country is still prosperous, although worried. From one city, New York, 2,000,000 people were able to go away for the Labor Day weekend. In one day 44,000 automobiles went through the tunnel under the Hudson river, paying $44,000 for the round trip.

Radio's Service To Humanity Emphasized By Andree Fate

Discovery Of Body Of Explorer And Companion After 33 Years Turns Attention To Perils Of First Aerial Drive Into Arctic

The Arctic's cruel and easy victory over Andree three decades ago has stirred comment on the powerful tool which radio has placed in the hands of man as he battles nature. Expeditions undertaken hardly a generation ago appear "primitive" compared with the achievements of the modern adventurer.

Looking at the balloon flight which ended so tragically on the island of Fridtjof Neansen Land "in retrospect" it suggests to the SYRACUSE HERALD "the very extreme of primitive unpreparedness and hazardous folly."

To the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD all these men, Andree, Peary, Amundsen, "intrepid, fearless, death-defying" as they were, represented the "primitive" explorer. They will always be heroes for mental courage and unquenchable thirst for adventure in the rigorous north, they braved perils seemingly stupendous in comparison with the object of their search, they seemed to dare for the love of daring, with the fascination of a terrible, insatiable spell of the Unknown upon them. In the pursuit, the ordinary precautions in the minds of human beings seemed to be waved aside and the whole stake made on the theory that destiny determines all and therefore why hold back, why be afraid?

Now the day of the dashing explorer is ended. We have more modern, well equipped scientific expeditions with every precaution observed in the planning and a motor that will roar its way in any temperature into any unknown land. There will always be available warm clothing and the well cooked meals will be Delmonico compared with the rations of pemmican, fat and what not of the old-time Arctic explorer. The mystery for the daring is out of the picture; some other undreamed of Unknown must provide the lure.

"Andree had no modern facilities for flight," recalls the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, "but he took what was at hand and made his bid. He failed, but he proved himself a man. A poignant story, but containing no element of cowardice." The Evening News feels that the discovery of those frozen bodies on White Island, in one of the most inaccessible spots in the Arctic is like harking back to early history, and describes it as "a solemn last chapter in a thrilling story of devotion to exploration in the face of what proved to be certain failure."

"Andree and his men," according to the NEW ORLEANS MORNING TRIBUNE, "ventured as gallantly as any men who ever lived in the Arctic, assumed great risks in cutting themselves from earth with a hydrogen bag and trusting all to the winds which they hoped would take them across the Pole and around the earth's curve to civilization again."

The SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS views this last development as "probably the most tragic of all tales of recovery, by reason of the long silence finally broken, and the particulars of the last lonely hours. The one yet unlocked mystery of the north is the fate of the intrepid Amundsen, by some believed to be yet alive, but by most regarded as involved in a hopelessly unsolvable mystery by reason of his airplane having fallen into and been swallowed up by the Polar sea."

"In the pre-war era," declares the RICHMOND NEWS-LEADER, "an Arctic pathfinder was lucky if he could get news to the world within a year after he reached his 'farthest north.' If he lost his ship, every day on the ice was a gamble with death. Now the world knows where he is every moment, as long as his radio operates, and if he goes down, not too far from his base, searchers can be looking for him within hours. It is an old story now, but those who were born before the age of radio never cease to marvel at the change the employment of that mysterious wave has made in bringing the ice field to Main street."

"The fact that Andree had to depend on pigeons and floats to carry his messages," comments the DAY-ENPORT DEMOCRAT, "suggests the changes that have come about in 33 years. A good radio outfit might easily have saved the lives of the party by keeping the world in touch with its progress and leading rescuers to its final camp."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ONLY FOR THE MOMENT

Trade and commerce are affected directly by the facilities of transportation. The sustenance and upkeep of urban populations and the distribution of raw materials are dependent upon open traffic lanes. The moral, social and cultural welfare of a people progress largely as their means of communication and contact progress.

Succeeding the decay of the great Roman Empire, its splendid system of twenty-nine highways connecting the Eternal City with her outlying provinces and dependencies, those monumental arteries over which pulsed the life-blood of that far-least-dominion to its heart at Rome, caravans of commerce and phalanxes of conquering soldiery, began to disintegrate. Later, during the Dark Ages, thousands of miles of these wonderful roads and hundreds of substantial and picturesque bridges fell into disrepair or were destroyed.

Today many miles of these great Roman highways remain and are used. How long would it be before they would remain were it not continually kept in repair? Just look at a stretch of roadway abandoned for a year or two and answer.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Help Child To Accept Final "No"

You and I learn quickly to adjust ourselves to the inevitable, so does the child.

At two or at ten he finds it relatively easy to accept "no" if there is no doubt about it. But the small child, who is so full of curiosity, will argue, beg, whine, sob or throw a fit of rage.

You and I know how hard it is not to wobble, how inclined we are to lift our decisions in accordance with the way the child responds to them.

We often say "no" only to discover immediately the foolishness of our obduracy. Then if we wish to be just and fair we reverse ourselves. Of course, doing so makes the child doubtful about our stand later on. Sometimes following a pronouncement we are overwhelmed by the grief it caused the child, when in our weakness we repent giving an excuse which is not the correct reason, but a subtle means of justifying our reversal. We may fool ourselves but we rarely fool the child. To him it was his tears or temper on his argument which had caused us to come to our way. With a few successes to his credit he has acquired a habit of hoping always for a modification of our dictum. So the habit grows in him of putting up a protest when our wishes don't agree with his.

Parents who before the child are always one, who in his absence often run out their differences in respect to all details about his guidance, will strive to be so just and sparing of commands, and so sure of standing by them once they have been made, that obedience in the child will be an easy matter.

When we are best as parents our children, from their early years, learn that there are certain things they dare not do. They know, moreover, better than to ask for certain privileges. They know before-hand our answer to virtually every such request they wish to make. Accordingly, they learn never to make one at all, or are ready to adjust themselves when such privileges are denied. When children, by and by,

Lancaster High School Resumes Coeducation Plan

Separate Schools For Boys And Girls Is Merged Under New Arrangement

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 3.—For the first time in many years, coeducation will prevail at the Lancaster high school when classes open early in September.

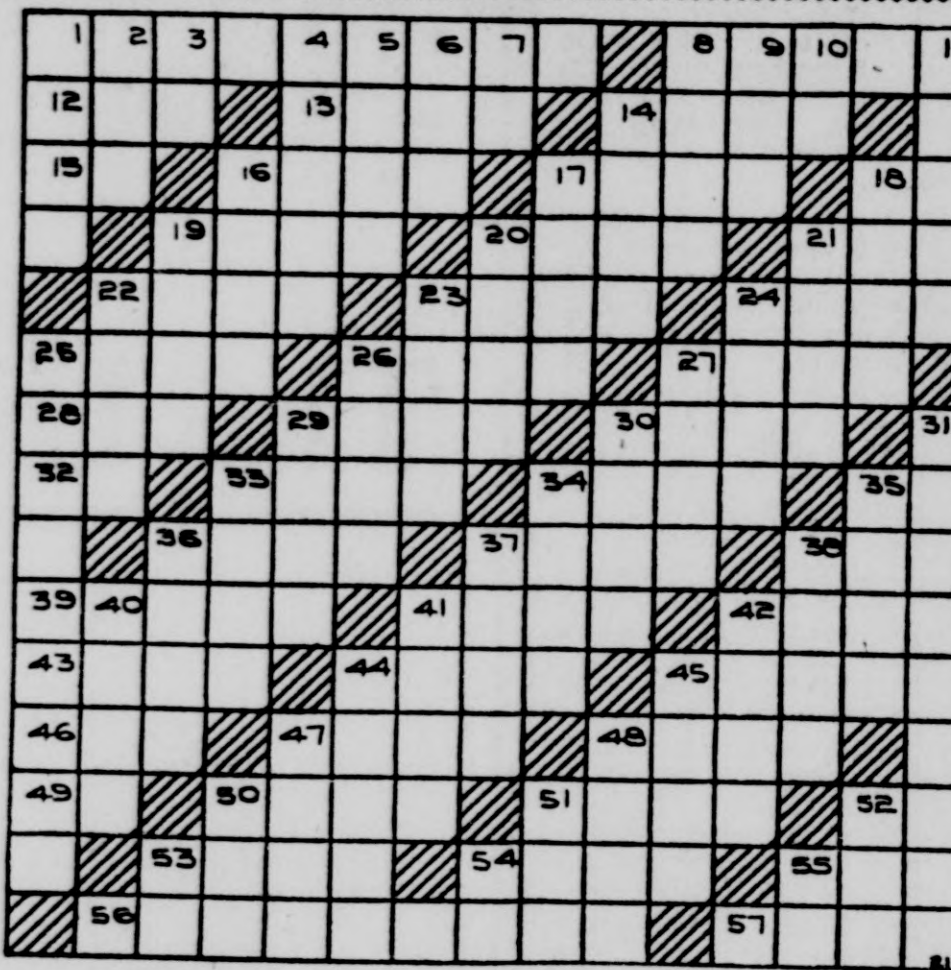

Under the new order, the high school for boys and the high school for girls, although two blocks apart, will be merged into one unit and both buildings used for classes.

Insofar as possible, Principal Stacey E. Peters announced, classes will be consolidated at the beginning of the term, but complete functioning of the coeducational plan will not come until all pupils are gathered in one building, he said.

"One of the definite results of the coeducational system," Peters said, "will be a cut of approximately $4,000 in operating expenses despite the fact that enrollment has increased 100 over last year."

There will be about 700 boys and 650 girls in the school this year.

"Meanest Thief"

Robs Poor Box

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—This city's "meanest man" was discovered by police today.

He is an unidentified white man about 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds.

The man, police said, entered St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic church early today and robbed the poor box. Donations dropped in the box were used to aid destitute persons seeking relief from the church.

The loot amounted to about $7.

You see, stock must die for want of feed because all the cotton seed hulls are needed for golf.

Peter's Adventures

WHICH QUEEN HAS THE BETTER OF IT?

"What's a Queen good for?" demanded Peter, and Busy the Worker Ant looked puzzled. Then, being a very bright insect indeed, she understood Peter's question.

"You mean you think it is a queen's place to command her subjects?" Peter nodded.

"Well, it isn't in Ant Town. On the contrary, here our queen must do as her subjects tell her to!" chuckled Busy. "To be sure, when we Ants have had one queen a long time we learn to honor her. And to our queen we go when we want advice or are in need of comfort. But there are lots of things we must do for ourselves—things we know how to do far better than she could tell us."

"Then aren't you a bit afraid of your ruler?" asked Peter. "Doesn't your queen ever cry 'Off with her head' when one of you displeases her?" Busy shook with laughter.

"No Queen of the Ants ever gave such a command that I can remember. She wouldn't dare, unless we worker ants all agreed with her. No youngster in Ant Town a queen rules by love but never by fear. That is one thing for you to remember."

"The Queen Bee?" began Peter, but got no further.

"You're always talking about the Queen Bee!" cried Busy crossly. "You can't tell me anything about her. I've always heard she was a despot. But poor thing, her ruling days are over when a new queen comes to town. Then her subjects turn upon her and drive her from the hive. To us Ants that's a great crime we would not be guilty of. As long as she lives our queen is our queen, however many others may arrive in her lifetime. To the end of her majesty's life we love her. Which has the better of it, the Bee's queen or ours?"

"Next: 'Every Ant Minds His Own Little Voice.'"

WHAT A QUEEN GOOD FOR? DEMANDS PETER.

DRY WEATHER IS AID IN CAMPAIGN ON INSECT PESTS

Retards Some Species While Others Flourish; Result Varies

HARRISBURG, Sept. 3.—The hot, dry summer held in check depredations by certain species of insects while aiding the work of others, according to L. Clayton, chief entomologist, bureau of plant industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The corn borer infestation has been less than usual due, in all probability, to the heat and dry weather which destroyed a large number of eggs and young borers.

While the Japanese beetle was more plentiful and did greater damage in the Philadelphia area than before, it was noted that in extreme, dry situations in other parts of the beetle-infested area, the adult beetles failed to appear, perhaps due to the drying out of the inactive stage of the insect while still in the ground.

Furthermore, it is likely that the scorching sun and lack of moisture in many sections baked the ground so hard that the female Japanese beetles were unable to deposit eggs far enough below the surface of the ground to avoid the extreme heat.

Usually, the eggs are deposited two inches or more below the surface so that sudden changes in temperature do not affect them. The result may be a decrease in number of beetles in many areas during the 1931 season.

Bean Beetles

The Mexican bean beetle did comparatively little damage in the Commonwealth, and according to Federal reports, was reduced to a negligible factor over practically all of the drought stricken area.

Since the season has been too dry for volunteer wheat to grow, it is likely that the Hessian fly will be less destructive than usual during the 1930-31 season.

Insects which were more favorably affected by the unusual season include the grasshopper, red spider and codling moth. Red spiders were reported quite generally over the entire drought area, and extremely abundant and destructive.

In general, entomologists are reluctant to attribute strictly to drought and the high temperature the variations, favorable or unfavorable, in the prevalence of insects. They explain that temperature and moisture are important limiting factors in pest populations but are so intimately associated with parasitism, disease, variations in food supply alternate hosts and competing animals (including insects) that the complexity of the problem makes it hazardous to draw conclusions.

RETURN FROM CLYMER

Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Anderson of Pearson street have returned home from Clymer, Pa., where Mrs. Anderson was the main speaker of the day at a rally of young people. Rev. Anderson is pastor of the Christian Missionary Alliance church of this city.

What a world! If you say something everybody believes, it's a platitude. If you say something new, it's heresy.

Seven Jurors In Donahoe Murder Trial Selected

Hope To Complete Selection Of Jury Today As New Panel Of Jurors Is Drawn

JOHN BELL ON TRIAL FOR LIFE

(International News Service)
UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 3.—With a new panel of 150 veniremen on hand to be questioned, and seven jurors selected from the original panel of 100, it was hoped that the jury in the trial of Anthony W. Bell, former county detective and Mason-town chief of police, for the murder of Constable John F. Donahoe would be completed today, the third of the famous trial.

Four men and three women have been tentatively selected. They are Owen Pletcher, Tyrone township farmer; Mrs. Mary Costello, Lemont, town clerk; Mrs. Martha Goodman, Lemont, mother of ten children; Orville Stacey, Maxwell, blacksmith; Mrs. Mary Ruggie, wife of a Dunbar township schoolmaster; Jesse McLann, Luzerne township farmer, and Commodore Pike, of Dunbar township.

Many Opinionated
Most of those of the original panel of qualifying for the Bell trial were excused when they expressed themselves as being opinionated or being conscientious objectors to capital punishment.

Judge Thomas H. Hudson, presiding over the trial, was expected to call a night session for tonight in case he jury was not completed when court adjourns.
District Attorney J. A. Adams and special prosecutor A. E. Jones, in charge of the commonwealth case, have maintained the strictest silence as to what the state's case will be. Because of the widespread attention attracted by the killing of Donahoe it has been difficult to find jurors who have not formed opinions. Throughout the entire two days of the trial thus far, Bell has maintained an air of self-assurance as he sits gaily with his attorneys and his wife, Mrs. Florence Bell. Counsel for Bell is composed of Attorneys H. S. Dumbauld, Wade L. Sewell and Jacob Horowitz.

He has not been heard of since, according to Thellman's report to police. The machine arrived Pa. license 02778.

Anthony Shish, 1109 1-2 Scioto St., reported to police early this morning that someone entered his garage during the night and stole a sedan, Pa. license 663F9.

Lightning Sets Fire To Tipple

Bolt Of Lightning Sets Fire To Coal Tipple; Loss Is $350,000

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—Fire starting from a bolt of lightning today destroyed the tipple and coke washer of the Keystone Coal & Coke company's Salemville mine near here and caused damage estimated at more than $350,000.

Lighting up the countryside for miles around, the flames defied efforts of firemen from this city and several other nearby boroughs for more than two hours.

Starting at the bottom of the tipple during a heavy thunder storm, the flames rapidly licked their way through the rain-soaked building and spread to the washer nearby.

Power lines leading to the mine were severed as a safety measure for the fire-fighters.

The mine, one of the largest of the Keystone company chain, employs 300 men. Officials today had not announced whether they intended to rebuild.

Additional rain about two hours after the first storm aided firemen considerably in bringing the raging flames under control.

Colonel W. W. Woodcock Urges Federal Dry Agents To Be Intellectually Honest

"Must Get Commercial Violator First" Director Admonishes His Picked Staff

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, opened his school for prohibition agents Tuesday with an exhortation for them to be intellectually as well as morally honest.

"If we win this campaign by improving the type of agents, then it cannot be won at all," he said.

"Get the commercial violator," was given by Woodcock as the principal objective of enforcement.

"If we reach that objective without too many casualties," he told the specially picked agents comprising the class, "we may have further objectives."

The class, comprised of two agents from each of the twelve administrative districts and ten field inspectors, will return to their posts after the thirty-day course and instruct their fellow agents.

Woodcock declared they should go back to their duties and warn the others "not even to make border line cases," to lead them to a higher conception of their duties, and to protect the rights of innocent persons.

JUST COMMON THINGS

Editor of News:

The Purple Martins at the Atkinson place, West Side, left for their winter home in the Southern hemisphere about fifteen days ago. Let us hope that they did not encounter any of those tropical hurricanes that are so destructive to the migratory bird life. That they found good weather, swarming them, and plenty of flies were buzzing around to feast on, after their long and tiresome journey and that they did not fly into a spell of wet cold weather with the flies all hiding in the grass; as they and the swallows did here last spring, and had a time capturing enough to live on.

When leading a horse across a pasture during one of those unseasonable cold spells, a white misser flew up in front of me. A swallow that was flying around looking for something to be kicked up made a dash for it, but was afraid to come close enough to me to get it. I kicked it up three times before it took courage enough to snap it up. That is the way we should have all the time plenty hungry enough to snap up the winged pests on sight, even in warm good weather.

My father had a martin colony house made and erected when I was a boy. The martins would come and look it over and go, leaving it for the wrens and blue birds to fight over, and later for the sparrows to occupy.

This summer I have been trying to find out why they are so picky and fail to occupy all the houses erected for them. James Atkinson of the West Side says that it is because mud for nest building is not handy or conveniently near by.

John Yoder of North Lima, Ohio, who had seventy pairs this year; thinks this is doubtful, as he is located on a hill more than a mile from the nearest convenient supply of mud.

Both Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Yoder's martins did not scatter into the adjoining neighbors boxes erected for them until all their own apartments were fully occupied; they naturally flock together in colonies. My own opinion is that the failure to provide enough suitable homes, has caused them to become few and scarce. Just as the closing of the barns against barn swallows, has caused them to become few and scarce, about one jump from extinction.

I can remember when even New Bedford had its purple martins. One colony box was located right over the door of the John Danna store.

We ever had as many of these self acting fly swatters as we should have, we will all have to work together and exercise a lot of patience—if the fool farmers would all open up their barns to the swallows tomorrow, it would be the most profitable thing they could do. It would be ten years before half of them would be occupied and fifteen years before all would be.

For "Verily no man liveth unto himself."—We have to depend on our neighbors for the birds, in the country at least, just as we are dependent on them for our Canada thistles.

By Central Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A Littry Lad said to me the other day:

"Piracy in this game has reached such a pass that a writer can scale his fame by the reputation of the men who steal his stuff!"

A GENTLEMAN PASSES

Lon Chaney, who passed on the other day, was one of the kindest men who ever lived. He used most of his huge yearly income in alleviating suffering he encountered—helping the underdog.

He used to say: "There are always plenty of willing hands outstretched to provide a chair for the leading lady on the set. There aren't so many when it comes to the tired little 'extra.' And it's the tired little 'extra' who always has had my sympathy."

THE GENTLER SEX

It is estimated that more than a million women in the United States are living on the form of taxation without representation, known as "alimony." More than a million husbands are paying installments on marriages long since scrapped and the number is rising steadily with our rising rate of divorces and separations exceeding every country of western Europe in numbers and amounts awarded.

There's an army of gold diggers who have made the extraction of alimony a science.

This week a woman, wealthy, whose ex-husband spent a year in jail because he couldn't pay his alimony, applied to the courts to have the poor devil sent back again because while he was serving the year his bill had been augmented by $600.

The judge refused to send him back pointing out that a man in jail cannot earn money and if this sort of thing were continued—if the prisoner were recommitted at the end of each year for failure to discharge the last 12 months' bill, it would be tantamount to imprisonment for life.

"I know it," said the woman with a shrug, "and that's where he ought to be—in jail for life!"

DEMOCRACY

A millionaire resident in a Park avenue hostelry fell ill, and traffic in the neighborhood was diverted so that the sick Croesus would not be disturbed.

A young Democrat in a Ford car, unaware of the restriction, warned a pedestrian by tooting his horn and was promptly pinched.

All of which is perfectly consistent with modern, widespread prevailing reverence for riches.

At Second avenue and 26th street, a mile and a half southeast of the millionaire's Park avenue casement, is one of the city's large hospitals.

This particular street corner is one of the noisiest and dirtiest in the city; but that really doesn't matter. Most of the sufferers in the institution are men and women without much money and therefore of no importance in the community.

Ailing poverty has no right to be sensitive.

NOT SUPERSTITIOUS, BUT—!

In a 42d St. Colored Revue there is a prison skit in the course of which a negro is depicted on his way to the electric chair.

Jimmy Jackson, originally cast for the part, was found dead in his Harlem flat and the opening performance of the show had to be postponed.

That didn't make much of a hit with the boys in the east. After some difficulty Nat Cash was persuaded to take over the part. He agreed and the following morning was found dead.

sitting upright in a chair with the script of the role in his hands.

Ted Marcel, the white stage manager, is pinch hitting in the part now. There isn't an acting agency in Harlem that will send a man down to Times Sq. to take over the hard-luck role and Will Morrissey is thinking of throwing the skit out.

Postpone Sale Of Jolly Bowl

Sheriff Frank Johnson announced that the sale of the Jolly Bowl has been postponed until 10 o'clock, Saturday morning. The bowl was to have been sold at two o'clock Tuesday to satisfy a rent claim due for ground occupied by the bowl and owned by Jonas Kaufman.

COPS ON BEANY

Police Commissioner Mulrooney is not the box office attraction that his predecessor, Grover Whalen, was. When Whalen was commissioner the police department opened a cafeteria in headquarters annex. Grover himself ate there and the place was always crowded.

The sight of Mulrooney carrying his own tray of grub and being jostled by ordinary cops, did not make the hit that Whalen did. And then, a man with a deep insight into cop psychology, opened an opposition Nose

Four Are Injured In Auto Crash

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 3.—Four persons, three of them from Parnassus, were injured in a head-on automobile collision on the O. City road. In the hospital are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dockery, 350 Aragon Drive, Parnassus, and their 9-year-old daughter, Gayle, the latter with serious scalp wounds and internal injuries.

S. C. Funk, assistant division engineer of the state highway department, in the other car, suffered an injured neck and knee, but did not require hospital treatment. The car in which the Dockery family was riding swung out of line to pass three other cars and a wagon and crashed into the state highway automobile. The driver, Louis Saligner of Swissvale, escaped injury.

Ways And Means Committee Will Meet On Friday

Committee Is Named By
Chairman Bell For Armistice Celebration
On Arrangements

TO MAKE PRELIMINARY
ARRANGEMENTS FRIDAY

Plans Are Being Rapidly
Pushed Forward By Various Committees
In Charge

Announcement was made this morning by Commander James A. Bell of the Harry L. McBride Post, general chairman of the big Tri-County Armistice Day celebration to be held here on November 11, of the formation of a Ways and Means committee, the first meeting of which will be held in the Legion Home Association Building on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Those named on this important committee will go over tentative arrangements for the celebration and devise a method of raising funds for the big event.

The committee is headed by William S. Lewis, chairman, and includes the following men:

Lester Wooley, Orville Potter, John Kennedy, Harvey Bintrim, Rev. Nathan McClung, William M. Dunlap, George W. Muse, W. Glen Berry, W. J. Chapman, Robert Gowell, Paul Kanengiser, William Sturdy, Gordon Klein, R. W. Rowland, and Col. Dan McKusick.

It is important that these men attend Friday night's meeting, as most of the committees already named have started to function and have inaugurated plans for one of the biggest celebrations of a military nature ever held in Lawrence county.

It is expected that several thousand men will be here from the surrounding counties of Mercer and Butler, in addition to the several thousand ex-service men from Lawrence county to properly celebrate the close of the greatest war in all history.

The day has begun to take on added significance with the men who participated in the great engagement and they feel that it is a momentous occasion which the citizens should share with them.

All ex-service men in the county and the citizens of the community are invited to participate with them in the celebration. It is not an affair for members of the two posts sponsoring the event, alone.

Bootleg Quarrel In Detroit Ends By Fatal Shooting

Man Who Fired Fatal Shot At Detroit Bootlegger Confesses His Crime

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Sept. 3.—A dispute over "Liquor Rights" between two alleged bootleggers today was climaxed by the fatal shooting of one of them and the capture of the second, who confessed to the slaying.

Dick C. Alford, 33, was shot and fatally wounded as he was eating in a purported blind pig early today. Marty Crowe, 44, who was taken into custody at the scene of the shooting by police who were "tipped off" by an anonymous telephone call from a woman, confessed to the killing.

Both Crowe and Alford are well known to police and patrons of blind pigs in downtown Detroit, according to police. They each served a large clientele of drinkers, police declared, and a quarrel over liquor rights in the downtown district is alleged to have preceded the shooting.

Man Killed By Poison Liquor

Five Others Who Drank From Same Bottle In Bad Shape

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 3.—Six men celebrated the close of Labor Day by drinking from the same bottle, purchased from an unidentified bootlegger. Today one of the party is dead and the others are in jail recovering from wood alcohol poisoning, while officials of Trumbull county, O., just across the state line, are investigating the case.

The five men who did not die are not yet out of danger, physicians say, but are expected to recover.

The dead man is John Gerlasky, 40, of Judson road, Brookfield township. His body was found in a box car on the New York Central siding when a friend went to search for him. His companions, in a stupor, also were in the car, but did not know Gerlasky was dead. They were Bob Gerlasky, Farrell, Jack O'Connor, Washington, Pa.; Thomas Lynch, Waterbury, Conn., and two others who could not give their names.

None could tell officers where the alcohol was purchased.

Franklin Horse Trainer Figured In Origin Of First Motion Pictures

It was a horseman's interest in the stride of a trotting horse that resulted in the start of motion picture photography. And it was a man who was well known among New Castle horsemen who drove the animal that was used in those epoch-making experiments.

These facts were called to mind recently by Frank Hunter, one of the number of local men who are and always have been greatly interested in horses, and horsemanship.

It was over a half century ago that Governor Leland Stanford, of California, owner of a large Palo Alto stock farm, undertook to prove his contention that there was an instant during the stride of a fast trotter when all four feet were off the ground. There had been considerable controversy at that time between Stanford and his friends over the subject.

Stanford had his photographer place, along the race track, a battery of cameras. During the first experiments 12 cameras were used, then, later the number was increased to 24. Strings were stretched from the levers on the cameras across the track. When the wheels of the sulky touched the strings the pictures were taken. As a result of the experiments, Stanford had proved his belief and it was to be the start of motion pictures.

Stanford was helped in the experiments by Charles Marvin. It was Marvin, a widely known horse trainer, who drove the trotters during the photographic experiments.

Marvin, according to Hunter, often visited New Castle and was a trainer on the Prospect Hill Farm. He along with local men, raced on the rather famous kite track at Meadville and was a prominent figure at races in many points of Western Pennsylvania.

The interesting story of his prominent part in the origin of motion pictures was not generally known.

Winners in the knot board contest were Chuck Polen, Clayton Cramer, and Pete Wimer. Assistant Scoutmaster Bill Young gave a talk on first aid. Patrols then went to their corners and practiced first aid and patrol stunts. The Indian Patrol won the contest.

Father Of Nine Shoots His Wife, Then Himself

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 3.—Despondent and mentally unbalanced because of worry over unemployment, John Shariskey, father of nine children, shot and killed his wife and then killed himself just as the officers reached his home. Police fought off the man's dogs before they could reach his body.

John, 23, the man's son and oldest of the nine children, told county officials his father had not worked for several months, and had been obliged to mortgage their home to obtain money with which to pay debts. His father, he said, purchased the revolver with which he fired the fatal shots after a quarrel with his wife over money matters.

Shariskey ran into the nearby woods and shot himself through the head there as officers, informed of the slaying of Mrs. Shariskey, approached the home.

Senate Committee Calls Dannenberg For Questioning

Private Detective Employed By Ruth Hanna McCormick
Summoned Again

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—W. C. Dannenberg, private detective employed by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick to investigate activities of the Senate Committee headed by U. S. Senator Gerald P. Nye has been subpoenaed to testify again today before the committee investigating Mrs. McCormick's campaign expenditures.

Dannenberg, taking the stand yesterday at the Senate Committee's sudden resumption of the hearing, stirred its members with aspersions which Senator Nye declared were reflections upon him and the committee.

Dannenberg charged that his investigation had disclosed that a woman spy had been discovered in a closet of Mrs. McCormick's hotel suite here shortly after her nomination as the Republican candidate for the United States Senate last fall.

The detective also said Mrs. McCormick's telephone wires had been tapped and her Byron, Ill., home raided and papers stolen from her office there. Perhaps the most sensational of the slutt's charges was that an operative of his organization had been bribed by another detective to supply him with confidential office reports, paying for this information with Federal Reserve bank notes.

Senator Nye then ordered a subpoena served on Dannenberg, requiring him to produce the records of his investigation today.

The inquiry was suddenly resumed yesterday as an answer to Mrs. McCormick's admission that she was having Senator Nye shadowed because of the alleged outrages committed by Senate Committee investigators.

Goodyear Balloon Believed Winner Of Bennet Race

Officials Believe Goodyear Balloon VIII Goes Longest Distance In Air

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 3.—Belief that the United States entry Goodyear VIII, had won the nineteenth annual Gordon Bennet international balloon race was strengthened today as derby officials checked the distances flown by the six huge bags which started.

Unofficial map calculations indicated that Ward Van Orman, Akron, O., airman, had flown the Goodyear VIII nearly 500 miles before it descended last night at Canton, Mass.

Belgium's balloon, the Belgica, piloted by veteran Ernest DeMuyter, four time winner of the Bennett Classic, was second, having landed near Adams, Mass. Unofficial calculations showed the Belgica had flown approximately 435 miles.

Barny, the German entry, landed at Pittsburgh, N. Y., an estimated distance of 425 miles. Dr. Hugo Kaulen, Jr., piloted the Barmen.

The City of Detroit grounded at Coeymans, near Albany, N. Y., after floating 400 miles. The City of Cleveland ended its flight near Copenhagen, N. Y., and the French entry, Pierre Fishbach, landed at Smithfield, Ont., 175 miles away.

The six balloons took off here Monday under a leaden sky.

The department of agriculture maintains an experimental station for the purpose of determining how to grow and care for rabbits. A number of pamphlets on the subject may be obtained from that depart- ment.

Do broadcasting stations have special electrical apparatus for imitating the sound of an airplane? No. The sound of an airplane in a broadcasting station is produced by holding the end of a rolled up newspaper against the revolving blades of an electric fan.

Please advise the meaning of the following: "Caveat Emptor." It is a Latin phrase used exten- sively in the law contracts and means: "Let the buyer beware."

What is the highest mountain in the world and where is the deepest place in the ocean?

The highest mountain in the world is Mt. Everest, in the Himalaya mountains, India, and the deepest place in the ocean is off the coast of Porto Rico.

Are there more suicides than homi- cides in the United States each year? There are approximately twice as many suicides as homicides.

Does the president select the chair- man of the national committee of his political party?

In effect the president does make the selection, although the formal choosing of a chairman is done by the committee itself in conformity with parliamentary law.

Is it true that no murderer de- fended by Clarence Darrow was ever executed?

The last records of Darrow murder cases, published a few years ago, showed that he had defended ap- proximately 100 persons accused of murder and that none of them had received a death sentence.

I have been trying to recall a poem it went something like this: "In the darkness who could answer for the color of a rose." Can you tell me its name?

That is the first line of "The Blind Girl," by Nathalia Crane, the child poet of New York City.

What is the most difficult language to master? Probably Sanskrit. It all depends upon the individual.

Kotex—more than a "sanitary" pad

Kotex is utterly different from all other sanitary pads. There is no other "like" Kotex.

Kotex is the only sanitary pad filled with Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding.

Thus Kotex has the amazing power of absorbing 16 times its weight in mois- ture. That's 5 times more, by actual test, than surgical cotton. Think what this means in protection! Think of the ease of mind on warm summer days to feel sure of your sanitary protection.

Quickly, easily disposable

You use Kotex, then dispose of it . . . simply and quickly. No laundry prob- lem. No disposal worries. Think of the relief in that feature alone.

In summer women appreciate these advantages of Kotex: it is shaped to fit, under sheerest, tight-fitting summer frocks; it deodorizes thoroughly and absolutely. Keeps one dainty at all times. Banishes a summertime worry completely.

85% of hospi- tals use Kotex absorbent

Here's final, medical proof of Kotex' supe- riority: 85% of the country's leading hospi- tals use the iden- tical material of which Kotex is made. They've tried every- thing. They consider Kotex best. They use it, not only for sanitary pads, but for the most serious surgical operations.

Accept this offer

STAGE and screen stars declare Kleenex to be the only safe and sanitary way of removing cold cream. It is so soft, so absorbent, that it blots up all dirt and cosmetics along with the cream. The skin is left scrupulously clean, free of the germs that endanger beauty. Towels are spared the ruinous stains left by cosmetics.

Doctors are recommending Kleenex for handkerchief use, especially for colds and hay fever. You use each tissue but once—then throw it away. Cold germs are discarded, too. Thus you avoid reinfecting yourself from an unsanitary handkerchief.

Kleenex makes ideal handkerchiefs for children, and for everyday use.

Kleenex comes in a smart, modern box which makes an attractive addition to your bathroom or dressing table. It is cleverly designed to give you two sheets at a time, just as you use them.

"Look To Your Health"

"Cost is one of the main factors in any business. It is the item which more than any other controls the success or failure of any venture. While this rule is well recognized in the ordinary dealings of life, it is too frequently disregarded in the most vital business of all, namely, that of healthy, joyful and lengthy living," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health, today.

"In those days of self-gratification and the amazingly attractive means at hand to indulge it, there is no dif- ficulty in understanding the uncalcu- lating mind which gives full play to devitalizing indiscretions. However, the fact that enervating intemper- ances are seductively presented is, af- ter all, no real excuse to become vic- tims of them.

"Certainly, one's very life and hap- piness are worthy of as much atten- tion as one's bank accounts and dolla- making activities. Yet in a great number of cases this attention is de- plorably lacking. For such as these, counting the cost for lack of exercise, too few hours in bed, too much of the wrong kind of play, too much of the right kind of work and of sundry other things temporarily are gratifying.

"Nevertheless, the price tag eventu- ally, if not sooner, makes its appear- ance. And it is one which compels payment irrespective of inclination. It follows that a bit of wise and thoughtful calculation back of each day's living would develop a resist- ance to the habits that harm and kill. "Of course, one cannot live forever.

PREFERENCE

I think I'd rather have it said by one who neighbored near me: "With me he often shared his bread; his humor used to cheer me; 'Twas good to see him homeward bound, our street was gay for him."

Than have it cried the world around: "Nothing living man could floor him!"

I'd rather have my neighbor say: "He loved his little garden; Was slow to anger, some what may, and always quick to pardon. The children knew him for their friend and so did every dumb thing."

Than have this headline at the end: "Death takes the greatest some- thing."

I'm sure I'd rather have it told of me when I've departed: "He did his best to cheer the old, the sick and heavy-hearted. He was a neighbor we shall miss, his passing sorely grieves us." Then have the papers printing this: "A touring giant leaves us."

RESUME MINING AT STONEBORO

Huge Steam Shovel Which Will Be Used In Mining Opera- tions Put In Place

STONEBORO, Pa., Sept. 3.—Resi- dents of Stoneboro and surrounding territory are elated over the an- nouncement that the talk of opening a coal mine here by Pittsburgh and Kittanning interests is coming true. Interest reached a high pitch

Thursday with the arrival of a 52- ton steam shovel which will be used in the operations. Lumber and other materials are now in the ground and within the coming month work will be well under way. Arrangements have been made with the Pennsylvania Power Company for extending their pole line, and this work will be completed soon.

The mining industry has always been the industrial life of the com- munity, and this new project will be most welcome after five years of in- activity. Its development as outlin- ed now will mean much to the citi- zens and business houses.

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA

For Troubles due to Acid Indigestion, Acid Stomach, Headache, Gases, Nausea

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physi- cians in the 50 years since its inven- tion.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neu- tralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bot- tle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by phy- sicians for 50 years in correcting ex- cess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Com- pany and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Argue Ratio Of Shares In Recent Bethlehem Merger

"Battle Of Mathematics" Raging In Court At Youngstown, Ohio

BOTH SIDES ARE ARGUING FIGURES

(International News Service) YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 3.—A "battle of mathematics" raged in common pleas court here today at the trial of the billion dollar injunction suit against the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube company with Bethlehem Steel corporation.

On one side the figures of Ernest & Ernst, anti-merger accountants, claiming to prove that a "fair" ratio in the merger should have been 1.66 shares of Bethlehem for one share of Sheet & Tube.

On the other side were the figures of Price, Waterhouse & Co., attempting to defend the ratio of one and one-third for one and prove that it is more than fair to Sheet & Tube stockholders.

Hoping to establish the Ernest & Ernst figures as a more fair ratio than that set by Price, Waterhouse & Co., Clam Crawford, anti-merger attorney this morning cross-examined George O. May, senior partner in Price, Waterhouse, who charged yesterday that Ernest & Ernst "reached a result which in itself is a mathematical absurdity."

May testified that even were the Ernest & Ernst adjustments correct, the ratio on their figures would be 1.47 rather than 1.66 for 1.

AGED MAN IS STRUCK BY CAR

Accident Occurs On Wilmington Road On Tuesday Afternoon

Alvin Miller, an aged man of 73 years, of Neshannock township, was severely injured Tuesday afternoon when a car driven by Justin Panadewicz of 1509 Hanna street struck him as he was walking along the Wilmington road near the city line.

Constable A. Sharp Leslie and Officer M. J. Young went to the scene of the accident, the state highway patrolmen being out on the roads of the county at the time. They found Mr. Miller suffering from his injuries and called a physician. He was found to have a badly lacerated eye, bruises on his arms and legs and around his abdomen. Today it was not yet determined whether or not there were internal injuries.

Corporal Roseway of the state highway patrol was notified of the accident and immediately laid a charge of reckless driving against Panadewicz.

Stoneham Denies McGraw Is Through As Giants Manager

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—"It's a lie."

In these unequivocal terms, Chas. A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, today issued a scathing denial of a story that John McGraw intended to quit the club at the end of the 1931 season in order to buy a controlling interest in the Pittsburgh Pirates. Failing to do this, the story had added, McGraw would retire as active manager of the Giants and assume a strictly executive position with the organization.

"There isn't a word of truth in the story," Stoneham declared.

Steel Ingot Output Registers Advance

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—Although a recession of 4.3 per cent in pig iron production was noted in August, the iron age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say the decline is regarded only as water over the dam in view of the current trend of iron and steel work operations and the growing resistance of producers to price pressure.

Steel ingot output, registered the third consecutive advance in as many weeks, now averaging 55 per cent, compared with 54 per cent last week and 52 per cent three weeks ago.

Pig iron shipments at Chicago in August showed a gain of 20 per cent over July, while certain Cleveland producers report an increase of 25 per cent. Total pig iron production in August was 2,526,500 tons, compared with 2,639,537 tons in July. The daily average in August, 81,500 tons, underwent a decline of 3646 tons (4.3 per cent) from the July rate of 85,146 tons.

Under the new quotations, body sheets will be held at 3.60c and black sheets at 2.45c, Pittsburgh, while light plates and blue annealed sheets, heretofore 1.90c and 2.05c, will be 2c and 2.15c, and galvanized sheets, recently as low as 3c, will be 3.10c.

All three of the iron age composite prices remain at last week's levels. Finished steel at 2.142c, a lb. is $5.12 a net ton lower than a year ago. Pig iron, at $16.88 a gross ton, is $1.37 below its level of 12 months ago. Heavy melting scrap at $13.67 a gross ton, is down $3.16.

Butler Avenue Man Describes Chicago Races

Many Remarkable Airplane Feats Are Seen By Local People While At Chicago

A vivid description of the Chicago air races is given by Earl Patton, of Butler avenue, who, with his wife, has just returned from Chicago after spending the past several days there. While Mr. and Mrs. Patton sat in the grand stand they witnessed four quite serious airplane crashes and they saw some very remarkable examples of superior armament.

They saw Jimmie Doolittle pilot a plane 400 miles per hour. It resembled a bullet when passing the grandstand, according to Patton. No sooner did the spectators see the speeding plane coming, than it was gone.

Then there were the exciting races around the three towers, or "pylons," the formation flying, night flying with lighted planes, sky fire-works and parachute jumps. Joe Crane, who has several times performed parachute stunts in New Castle, gave a marvelous exhibition in Chicago. He landed in a designated 12 foot circle, according to Patton.

Mr. and Mrs. Patton were up in planes several times during their stay in Chicago.

Dannenberg Is Adamant Before Senate Probers

Detective Agency Head Defies
Senate Committee On Record Book Issue

WAS EMPLOYED BY RUTH McCORMICK

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—W. C. Dannenberg, head of the detective agency retained by Mrs. Ruth McCormick, Republican senatorial candidate to investigate the senate campaign expense investigating committee, today defied that committee when he refused to present his records for their scrutiny.

Dannenberg, who testified yesterday and charged that operatives of his agency had been bribed by investigators employed by the Nye committee was recalled to the witness stand when the hearing resumed here this morning.

Dannenberg had been subpoenaed to bring his books and records regarding his employment by Mrs. McCormick.

When he took the stand, Senator Porter H. Dale asked if he had brought the books the committee desired. If he had looked for them or if he had attempted to get into the vault where they are kept.

To each question the detective agency head answered:

"No Sir, I did not."

At this point Charles Randall stepped forward, announcing himself as attorney for Dannenberg.

"I have grave doubt if under the resolution that this committee was created whether the committee is empowered to demand my client to produce such confidential records," he said.

Senator Dale demanded whether Randall regarded the relations between Dannenberg and his clients similar to the relationship between a lawyer and his clients, and Randall said he did.

Small Damage Results From
Trio Of Small Fires Reported
Yesterday Afternoon

Several alarms were answered by city departments Tuesday, no serious damage resulting from any of the blazes.

An alarm was sounded from box 57 at 8:20 last evening, where a clogged chimney caused smoke to pour out into the rooms occupied by a meat market at 1601 Moravia street. No damage resulted.

Sixth ward firemen called to the home of William Alexander of 910 West Washington street last evening by a still alarm. A short circuit in a battery charger caused the apparatus to become overheated, but no fire resulted.

State Senator Was Poisoned

Analysis Shows Chicago Senator Dies From Poisoning

BELIEVED JOYCE WAS SECRETLY POISONED

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—State Senator John T. Joyce, who was found dead under mysterious circumstances in his home August 16, died from prussic acid poisoning.

This was announced today by Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, coroner's chemist.

Dr. Muehlberger said he found a sufficient amount of poison in the stomach, liver and kidneys to cause the state senator's death.

The findings of the coroner's chemist substantiates the charges made by relatives of Joyce that the state senator had been poisoned. At the time of his death, they charged he had been poisoned by enemies who feared exposure as a result of his testimony before the grand jury relative to gangster-political conditions in his ward.

Joyce had been before the grand jury a few days before he died and declared that gunmen ruled his ward during the primary election. On the eve of his death he was out in the ward collecting witnesses to corroborate his testimony.

When he appeared before the grand jury Joyce refused to identify the gunmen he said had intimidated the voters of his ward saying that to do so would invite his death.

Later, he is reported to have gone before the grand jury and named Tommy Abbott as the leader of the gunmen.

Mrs. Joyce, the widow, in testifying before the coroner's inquest said she had received a number of telephone calls the day before her husband died warning her that her husband's life was in danger.

Dr. Muehlberger presented his report regarding the poison he found in Senator Joyce's vital organs to the reconvicted coroner's jury. He expressed the opinion that Senator Joyce may have committed suicide. Members of the family however, vigorously discounted the suicide theory.

County Commissioners

(International News Service)
ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 3.—Discussion of county prisons marked the opening session of the forty-fourth annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners here today.

Dr. B. L. Scott, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Prison Society was the principal speaker. Using the general subject of "prisons" as his topic, Dr. Scott condemned county jails of the commonwealth.

"County jails are a failure as far as being a protection to society and are costly in money values as well as in human values," the speaker said. He urged substitution of the industrial prison farm.

Homer C. George, sheriff of Cambria county, spoke on the same subject and discussed it from the prisoner's standpoint. George frowned on "coddling" prisoners, claiming that they should "be made to feel that they are paying a debt to society."

The convention will continue for three days. Judge Marion D. Patterson of Blair county made the welcome address which opened the gathering.

George W. Hibbs, Fayette county, presided.

Boys Are Held In Probe Of Robbery

Three boys whose ages ranged from 12 to 14 years were held by the police in the matron's department this afternoon while an investigation was started to determine the extent of their grocery store robberies.

Police arrested one of the trio this morning and in a short time two other boys implicated in the robbery were at police headquarters.

C. L. Flickinger, manager of the Kroger Grocery and Bakery company reported that his store had been entered last night through a cellar entrance. Four cartons of cigarettes, a cake, candy, and a ham had been taken from the store, located at 36 North Mill street.

COSTE-BELLONTE WILL SEEK PRIZE

In order to secure the Easterwood prize money, a cablegram from the donor in Scotland stated that they must depart from New York within 72 hours of the time they landed there. A local representative of Col. Easterwood, however, said that they must leave New York within 24 hours. The matter was expected to be definitely settled today.

Preparations for a huge air welcome at Love Field, where the fliers will land upon their arrival here, were being made. Civic leaders and officials joined in planning for their entertainment, including a public banquet, after the flight to Dallas.

The flight from New York is to be made without a stop. It was expected the powerful "Question Mark" could make the trip in considerably less than 18 hours flying time.

Motorists Must Cease Following Fire Trucks

Aroused by motorists who follow fire apparatus on busy thoroughfares, Chief of Police C. C. Horner today declared that police will arrest violators of city and state ordinances.

Chief Horner said there is a city ordinance that prohibits drivers from following fire trucks. He added that a state ordinance also punishes offenders.

The police head's ire was aroused this week when he received reports of motorists who followed fire trucks in long rows, thereby interfering with apparatus which may have responded in the rear of the first fire fighters. "I have heard of the practice of certain motorists who endanger lives and interfere with fire apparatus by following in the rear," Chief Horner said this morning. "There is a city ordinance as well as a state ordinance which prohibits such action. If the practice is not stopped arrests will be made."

Chief Horner said that examples of motorists following trucks from the fire department were noticed this week when the department answered a fire on Grant street. He said that long rows of automobiles in the rear of trucks would have proved dangerous if additional apparatus had followed the front trucks.

French Fliers To Leave For Dallas Thursday Morning

Aviators Are Rested After Long Flight Across
Atlantic

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Weather permitting, Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, who have just conquered the "death trap of aviation" by making a non-stop flight from Paris to New York, will hop off from Curtiss airport in their scarlet Breguet sesquiplane at nine o'clock tomorrow morning for Dallas, Tex.

Coste, refreshed after a good night's sleep, made this announcement in his suite at the Ritz Towers today as he and Bellonte slicked themselves up for one of New York's official receptions to international air heroes, which will include a parade up Broadway to the City Hall late this afternoon.

A prize of $25,000 has been offered to Coste and Bellonte by Colonel W. A. Easterwood, Dallas sportsman, who is now in Europe, for the first flight from Paris to Dallas, with New York as an intermediary stopping point.

"Dallas is the real objective of our flight," said Coste. "We have to leave New York within 72 hours after our arrival here in order to win the prize. I am a little worried about the weather and I hope we can get away on time. I expect to make Dallas in 10 hours, spend the night there, and fly back to New York next day. I am anxious to see Dallas. I understand it is one of the great cities of the South."

Coste and Bellonte arose at nine a. m. and had breakfast in their suite. Then Coste put through a transatlantic telephone call for his wife in Paris. It was the first pleasurable duty undertaken by the French flyer. He talked to her for six minutes and also conversed with the head of the French cabinet and the air minister of France.

Mme. Coste, he revealed, plans to sail from France within four days to join her husband here. She may leave on the Ile De France tomorrow, which would bring her here next Wednesday, Sept. 10.

Coste then received the newspaper men. He was resplendent in pink striped pajamas and his bronzed face was wreathed in smiles.

"I had a nice sleep, and I'm very happy," he said. He told the press he had just talked to his wife. What did he say? "I asked her," said Coste, speaking in French, "if she slept well. She said she had not. I said, 'You should not worry about me, now that I'm safe. I hope you'll catch up on your sleep.' She promised she would."

Cotton rallied after a dollar a bale and grain sold higher at the beginning of the session but reacted later in the day to new low levels for the year, interior banks called home some of their funds from the call loan market, but the rate was not advanced above the 2 per cent. The Spanish Peseta was the weak member of the foreign currencies, declining to the year's low valuation of 16.60 cents to the dollar.

Ward Baking took the lead of the food stocks in the early afternoon, the common stock rose fractionally while the preferred jumped 6 1/2 points to 67 1/2. General Foods and Gold Dust refused to give ground and sold in small volume.

The Ralls and Utilities started the day at a lower level of prices, and failed to show any improvement in the course of the dull session. A few of the better grade of dividend shares were under accumulation in both sections of the market, but not sufficient to influence the course of prices.

INDUSTRY SHOWS SOME INCREASE

Rise In Production Of Electric
Power Reflects Increased Activity

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—An increase in industrial activity in Pennsylvania would seem to be indicated by a rise in the production of electric power by public-utility power plants in the State during July as compared with the previous month according to the department of the interior.

However, the output by the plants in the State showed a decrease of ten per cent from that of the same month, a year ago.

Public-utility power plants in Pennsylvania produced 620,397,000 kilowatt-hours of electric power during July as compared with only 605,023,000 kilowatts produced during the previous month. Of the total output during July, 577,359,000 kilowatts were produced by fuels and 43,028,000 kilowatts by water power, the department reports.

During July, Pennsylvania's public-utility power plants consumed 5,415,000 cubic feet of natural gas, 454,629 short tons of coal and 1,158 barrels of fuel oil in the production of electricity.

Grand Jurors who will convene here next Monday for September term of court are as follows: Baird, Thomas A., farmer, Slippery Rock.

Boyd, Phyllis, housekeeper, Pulaski. Brandon, James A., carpenter, 4th ward.

Ruth McCormick Stands Firm In Her Convictions

Woman Candidate Ready To Battle Nye Committee To Highest Court

MAY BE DENIED
SEAT IN SENATE

Prediction Made By Senator
Caraway That Secretary
Davis Will Be Denied Seat

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Ruth Hanna McCormick's spectacular defiance of the Nye campaign funds investigating committee afforded the capital politicians many chuckles and indignation today, depending upon the point of view, but it was also agreed on all sides that it has probably rendered her entrance to the senate more difficult should she be elected in November.

Mrs. McCormick's friends, and they are legion in Washington, extracted much amusement from her action in setting her own investigators to investigating Senator Nye and the committee's investigators, and then blandly asking, "What is Senator Nye going to do about it?" But in other quarters not overly friendly to Mrs. McCormick's senatorial aspirations, however, there was considerable criticism, and open prediction that she will never be seated even if elected.

May Be Denied Seat.
A formidable movement against seating the Illinois congresswoman should she present her credentials at election, already is on. As in the case of other senators denied their seats, the Democrats and the progressive Republican have combined against her because of her primary expenditures of more than $300,000. Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas has publicly predicted that neither Mrs. McCormick nor Secretary of Labor Davis (Pennsylvania) will be seated.

Another senator who is a Republican conservative, recently confided to friends that he had made a personal poll of the senate and found a majority against Mrs. McCormick purely on the ground that she had spent too much money in her primary.

"How," asked this senator, "can the same senate which denounced Truman H. Newberry's expenditure of $165,000 as grossly irregular now vote to seat a woman who admits having spent more than $300,000?"

The fight over her seating, always provided she is elected, would have been bitter enough with the amount of her expenditures the sole issue. Her present defiance of the Nye committee, and her hiring her own investigators to probe into the "biographies" of the member of the committee, can only serve, it was agreed today, to make the opposition to her more intense.

Formal Report.
The Nye committee will make a formal report to the senate in December on the results of its months of investigating candidatorial expenditures. Undoubtedly Mrs. McCormick's action in the present instance will comprise an important part of that report. If the senate is asked to go on record about it no one believes that the senate by formal vote can register approval of the shadowing and investigating of its own committee.

While Mrs. McCormick is a popular figure in Washington and has many friends among senators, the senate as a body is extremely jealous of its prerogatives and its dignity. Her opponents are going to make the most of their opportunity to say that she has subjected an official senate committee, operating in pursuance to an unanimous vote of the senate, to the dignity of being shadowed and investigated by private detectives.

Despite her friends' admiration for her courage and resourcefulness and independence, the present situation cannot help but add fuel to the fire that will be directed against her if and when she presents her credentials as the first woman ever elected to the august United States senate.

Motor Train Makes Stop Here At Noon

Invitations Are Delivered To World's Fair In Chicago
For 1933

It wasn't a passenger train that had strayed out of the yards, nor a locomotive and car that couldn't find their way home that pedestrians saw in front of Haney's Store on the Public Square today at noon. It was a train, the "Majestic Safety Special," consisting of a locomotive, a tender and a parlor car which is touring the world for a three fold purpose, first the promotion of Majestic radio sets, second the World's Fair in Chicago in 1933 and third, Safety First.

The locomotive is propelled by a 250 horse power gasoline engine with the first and third cylinder by passed into the stack to give the appearance of a steam locomotive. The exhaust chugs out of it for all the world like the engine of a sure enough railroad train.

H. O. McGee, the designer of the Safety Train who built it for the Grigsby-Grunow Company, is on board and delivers a short descriptive talk through the broadcasting apparatus. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes are on board along with William Parsons, the engineer in charge of equipment, who drives it and the fireman, Clinton Marshall.

The train was here today for the purpose of inviting Mayor Gillespie, Fred L. Rentz of The News, and the citizens of New Castle to the World's Fair in Chicago in 1933. From New Castle it left for Butler and from there will go to Uniontown, Pa.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—This exclusive telephoned picture shows the actual rescue at sea of the passengers of the S. S. Tahiti. Responding to radio calls from the British vessel, captain

W. R. Meyer raced his Matson liner S. S. Ventura to the foundering Tahiti and enacted another chapter of heroism in the history of the sea by rescuing the passengers and crew of the Tahiti in face of a threatening storm. Soon after the rescue work was completed the Tahiti sank. The survivors arrived here aboard the Ventura today.

Describes Symptoms Of Eye Trouble In Pupils

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF, AS WAS explained yesterday your child may not complain of defective vision, which actually exists, how are you to suspect that it has some sort of visual defect?

First, you may notice the child has sore eyes. A continuous moderately severe conjunctivitis ("pink eye") may be the result of a visual defect. Crops of styles have the same significance. Some of these sore eyes may have an even more serious significance, and mean a real infection of the surface of the eye. If allowed to go on they may cause cataract or opacities of the cornea with quite considerable and irremediable loss of vision. All such eyes should immediately be put in the hands of a good oculist.

Headache is another complaint made by the child, which should direct attention to the eyes. Eye-strain headaches usually come on in the evening. They may be definitely connected with some unusual strain on the eyes such as a long spell of reading, a visit to the movies, or a railway journey (with objects flashing past).

However, as I said yesterday, headaches do not by any means always accompany poor sight.

Other visual defects may exist without showing any insistent signs or symptoms.

In general these defects can be classified under the head of:

Short sight
Long sight
Astigmatism
Squint

Short sight occurs when the length of the eyeball is so great that the lens cannot easily throw a clear vision of an object on the retina, when the object is about a foot away from the eye.

Short sighted children are rather easy to spot, when the defect is pronounced. The child holds its book or work very close to its eyes. It can read easily from a book held near, but makes mistakes when copying work from a diagram or from a blackboard at a distance. It will often peer and knit its brows.

Correction by glasses can be made so that vision is satisfactory.

Long sight does not give such characteristic signs. Long sight eyes can see distant objects clearly. They can also make accommodation for nearby objects for some time. But before long the strain becomes too great, and the accommodation apparatus relaxes. Therefore, a reliable symptom of long sight in a child is that it will read along for a while without any trouble, and then suddenly will begin to make mistakes. When questioned it may complain that the "letters are jiggling around." After a little rest it can read on again perfectly for a while.

Long sight is always a congenital deformity of the eye ball. Short sight is always acquired, and is usually progressive unless treated with glasses.

Astigmatism is another defect the child is born with. The cornea is not evenly rounded, and objects will be distorted in one direction or another. Such children looking at a clock with roman numerals may notice that the figures XII and VI (vertical) are clear and black, while III and IX (horizontal) are dim and gray. Or the opposite effect may occur.

Astigmatic children may get into the habit of cocking the head to one side when asked to read a book, or tell the time or do a sum on the blackboard.

Squint is easily detected. One eye turns inward or outward. The treatment is very important, because an eye which squints tends to become useless and lose its vision.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order, in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan Clending, care of this paper. Write legibly and not over 200 words.

AUGUST 27, 1776. HOWE WITH 20,000 BRITISH TROOPS ATTACKED PUTNAM'S ARMY ON LONG ISLAND. PUTNAM'S ADVANCED FORCES (4,000 MEN UNDER SULLIVAN) INSTEAD OF FALLING BACK TO THE STRONG DEFENSES OF BROOKLYN HEIGHTS WHEN ATTACKED BECAME TOO DEEPLY ENGAGED WITH THE BRITISH LEFT WING.

HOWE'S THRUST AT THE AMERICAN LEFT WAS ONLY A FEINT TO SCREEN HIS REAL ATTACK. LEADING THE MAIN BODY OF THE BRITISH ARMY IN A WIDE FLANKING MOVEMENT, HOWE MARCHED AROUND SULLIVAN'S LEFT WING AND FELL UPON THE AMERICANS FROM THE REAR.

CAUGHT BETWEEN TWO FIRES THE AMERICANS WERE THROWN INTO CONFUSION, AND RETREATED IN DISORDER TOWARD BROOKLYN HEIGHTS. A THOUSAND OF SULLIVAN'S COMMAND WERE TAKEN PRISONERS, AND THE REST BARELY ESCAPED ANNIHILATION.

THINKING HE HAD THE REST OF PUTNAM'S ARMY SAFELY TRAPPED ON LONG ISLAND, HOWE PREPARED TO BESIEGE BROOKLYN HEIGHTS. BUT ON THE NIGHT OF AUGUST 29 UNDER COVER OF A THICK FOG, WASHINGTON FERRIED THE ARMY BACK ACROSS THE EAST RIVER TO NEW YORK. IN THE MORNING HOWE FOUND HIS PREY HAD FLOWN.

Philadelphia Goes For Burt Shotton In Great Big Way

Shotton Leads Philadelphia In Many Defeats But Still Fans Respect Him

Crowds Desert Athletics To Watch Phillies Perform—President Baker Satisfied

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—There seems to be something about a winner that enrages this town out of all reason and, on the other hand, it apparently can learn to love a loser in a very big way.

Anyhow, one story here today is that the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the world, are experiencing something of the same situation that confronted them back in 1914 when everybody stayed away from the ball park very resolutely. Another is that the Phillies, having won 43 out of 130 games for a natty 331, are disposed to go along with Mr. Burt Shotton, under whose auspices this most dubious of records has been sponsored. Ordinarily, one might look for Mr. Shotton to hit the asphalt on the first bounce, particularly in view of the fact that many deemed him to have started the season with a potential first division club.

Tolerance Surprises.
In this connection, it might also be mentioned that he is laboring in the interests of W. F. Baker, who like Sam Beardon never waits until he sees the whites of their eyes before firing. He has been known to fire without seeing anything except the standing of the clubs.

So his tolerance in the case of Mr. Shotton would be surprising, if it wasn't for the fact that everything about Mr. Shotton is surprising. He is one of the most successful failures known to baseball.

The mugs in the stands are for him and greet his every appearance with the silence of profound respect. His players are for him. So it seems, is Mr. Baker, although this is largely surmise. He has given no public utterance of his implied approval but this seems to be taken for granted, the idea being that everybody approves of Mr. Shotton, so why not Mr. Baker?

Has Confidence.
I talked to Shotton himself and he seemed to have every confidence that he would be allowed to go on trying to build up the Phillies next year, which is something like trying to make a vest out of an anvil. The club has two of the hitting leaders of the league in Klein and O'Doul, two good infielders in Whitney and Thevenon and the unfortunate reputation of being a good ball club that cannot win. What it happens to be is a very poor ball club that gives an impression to which it isn't at all entitled.

It hits away off 300 as a club but does most of its hitting after the ball game is lost beyond recall. It has no pitchers. Two of its infielders are playing on the dime that Mr. Baker gave them as a token of his esteem. The outfield, if not defensively impossible, is at least highly improbable. The club, in spite of its punch, is so slow that it hits into more double plays than any other in the major leagues.

Shotton Very Proud.
However, whatever it is, the club is Mr. Shotton's own and, as such, it is something to be moderately proud of. They gave him nothing to manage three years ago. He has been managing it with intelligence if not success ever since. He has made a lot of trades and none of them have been bad. This is the first of two things he has done on behalf of his owner, the other being money. Whatever else they are, the Phillies at least are an interesting outfit.

They are so interesting, in fact, that they had more paid attendance than the world's champion Athletics during recent home stands of the two local clubs. The champions, it appears, are being taken pretty much for granted here, just as the last winning club Connie Mack had back in 1914 was ignored because it won too much. On that occasion, Mr. Mack had to sell his stars to get even. I don't say the same condition exists today but, according to the local version, if the others are staying awake at night it isn't to gloat over the box office figures.

Amateur Baseball

The Carnegie Playgrounds team defeated the Byers Coal team 3 to 1, in a game played at the Carnegie Playground. It was a pitchers battle between Briggs and Zeigler, with the former having the edge, allowing but four hits, Zeigler, Biondi, Must and DiMuccio had extra-base hits.

The Kokomus team handed the Young Eagles a setback 12 to 10, in a game played at the Scott street field. It was a slugfest contest from start to finish, with nineteen hits being garnered.

The Pirate Snags defeated the Home Street Stars 12 to 9 at the Home street field. It was a very good game.

FROM THE GREEN

PUTTING THE "PUNCH" IN YOUR SHOTS

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

What makes the ball go? Why is it you can stand on the tee and hit the ball with all your might and it does not travel far?

Again, why is it that sometimes you take an easy swing at the tee shot and the ball sails 250 yards, much to your surprise?

The answer is "punch!" And that punch is in the wrists.

To get this punch stiffen your arms straight out in front of you (as in D) and work only your wrists with the club coming around, nearly touching the right and left shoulder with very little movement of the arms.

In the larger illustration you will see how this action is started from the tee ball. The hands and club (E) come back and then the hip movement follows. Note the stance (F).

The hands are kept low along with the club and the wrists start to break on the backswing and break again at the top of the backswing. With this breaking the body starts into the ball with the wrists following and snapping at those points where you broke the wrists coming back.

In the smaller illustration you'll find the right hand (A) is under the club and the left shoulder (B) under the chin. The weight is all on the right leg (C).

Jones on the hill in the abbreviated morning game allowed the Boro boys but one hit. He fanned nineteen. The Princeton team had five hits off Duncan. ## High School Gridders Work-Out At Camp; To Start Scrimmage

Thirty-two gridders, candidates for positions on the 1930 New Castle high school football eleven were sent through their third workout of the fall training season at Muddy Creek Falls on Tuesday afternoon under the watchful eyes of Head Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh. The camp opened on Monday morning with limbering up exercises and will come to a close on next Monday.

The initial workout on Monday morning consisted of exercises, and running to limber up lazy muscles. The second session was held on Monday afternoon and proved just a little stiffer. The boys ran through signal drills and few plays which Coach Bridenbaugh showed them on the first day.

Tuesday morning the gridders underwent tougher workout. Yesterday afternoon the workout was under first of calisthenics under assistant coach William L. Klee, and followed by half an hour of exercises. Some practicing clipping the dummy, some tackling the dummy, while others were learning to handle the ball.

To Start Scrimmage
Scrimmage will probably start today or Thursday. When scrimmages start they will probably be a daily affair.

The candidates will be sent through two rehearsals a day until the close of camp on Monday. They will then pack their equipment and come back to New Castle.

Starting with next Tuesday the boys will do their training at Taggart Field in preparation for the initial game of the year on September 19, with Coraopolis High at Taggart Field.

The material this year is green and to say that New Castle will have a great team this year is speaking a little too loud at the present. Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, with inexperienced men, faces a huge task.

Assisting Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh is William L. Klee and "Gig" Thomas. Ralph Day one of the best gridders ever produced at the high school is, also helping to round the huskies in condition. Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner like every one has

Sharkey May Be Without Services Of Johnny Buckley

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, September 3.—Jack Sharkey may be without the services of his manager and chief second in his scheduled fight with Victorio Campolo here on September 25. Sharkey's first since losing the heavyweight title to Schmeling last June. This was made possible today when Sharkey's mentor, Johnny Buckley, was declared suspended indefinitely here in order to conform with the mandate of the Rhode Island commission, which set Buckley down for reflections he is alleged to have cast upon the integrity of its officials.

Ernie Guerling, German heavyweight, was given into the managerial care of Bertys Perry, former pilot of Paulino, by way of settling a squabble for the German's services; then Guerling was declared suspended for failing to appear at a local club last night.

Spencers Will Play Wampum Thursday

Thursday night at the Lehigh Field, the Spencer-Wampum teams will battle in the second game of their series to determine the Mercantile league title. The Spencers won the first game 6 to 4. The Wampum team protested the decision at home-plate but it was not allowed by President Walther.

The Wampum team must either accept the Spencer victory in the first game, or forfeit their chances for the league title. The umpire ruled on the play the way that it should have been called and there is no other alternative other than to uphold the umpire. Had the Wampum man ran for home plate instead of walked, the run would have counted. There is no other decision to be made on this play.

The second game of the series was scheduled for last night, but Wampum claims they were not notified of the game in time to get their team out.

During the campaign it is well to believe only half of what one hears. The query is, which half?—The Seatle Daily Times.

Sport Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

Benny Leonard, former headman of the lighties, has turned college professor. He will teach students how to make a punch on your jaw result in two on the other guy's nose.

But Not Benny!

"Look here, my boy," the school prof said.

"A right to side, a left to head!"

"An uppercut! A jab! Wham! Wow!"

"Let teacher see if you know how."

"I'll try," the student told the boss.

And just swung once—a hard right-cross.

"School's out! Dismiss!" came the prof's roar.

From where he rested on the floor.

It will be a new experience for the students in a classroom, weighing in instead of sneaking out.

It's our bet that Professor Leonard's laboratory will contain plenty of spectators but mighty few subjects.

And Dr. Leonard's practical demonstration of the kayo punch probably will make many an undergraduate yearn for his diploma and those dear, old safe days as a bond salesman.

From now on life for the college boy will be just one ROUND of study after another.

Lehigh-Lockleys Battle Tonight

First Game Of Series For Industrial League Title Will Be Played Tonight

Tonight at the Lehigh Field, the Lehigh Cement team with Gus Thompson directing, will play the Lockley Machine Shop team, with Howard Reed in the managers seat, in the first game of a series of three for the Industrial League championship. The game starts at 6 o'clock.

The game bids fair to one of the feature tilts of the year. Both teams are good, and a fast hard fought battle is anticipated by the hundreds of followers of both clubs.

Westminster Depends On Eleven Veterans For 1930 Grid Season

NEW WILLINGTON, Pa., Sept. 3.—Coach "Dike" Beede, Westminster College football mentor, will depend upon 11 lettermen from last season to place the United Presbyterians among the leaders in the Tri-State Conference this fall.

These men are: Captain Russell Boone, Turtle Creek, center; Donald Cleland, Portersville, guard; Glenn Rehfs, Sandusky, O., tackle; David Morrison, Elizabeth, guard; Joseph Pipoly, Struthers, O., end; Richard Fuller, South Milwaukee, Wis., guard George Cebula, Campbell, O., end; Harry Michaels, Turtle Creek, quarter; Robert Deacle, Sharpshill, full; Emmett Tweedy, Turtle Creek, end; and Benjamin Haldy, Turtle Creek, half.

In addition to these 11 veterans, there are nine others who have seen service on Titan grid who will compete for positions. A squad of 40 men are working out twice daily in preparation for the nine-game schedule which opens Sept. 27, with Edinboro State Teachers at New Willington.

Rockne And Warner Discuss Shift Play

Famous Grid Coaches Meet In New York City For Football Discussion

Warner Alleges He Has Trick Plays Awaiting For Southern California

By DAVIS J. WALSH

International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—He didn't say so in so many words but it was apparent this morning that K. K. Rockne, the sage of South Bend, saw the football rules committee as a self constituted barrier to the further success of Notre Dame football as he sat and discussed the new shift rule in company with Glenn Warner. The rule, he seemed to wish to say—but didn't—represented an attempt by the committee to take over a problem which hitherto has occupied only his opponents, viz, how to stop Notre Dame and the teams that use the Rockne system, Purdue and St. Mary's among others. Another way to stop them, I surmise, is to hit them deftly behind the ear with an Indian club.

Mr. Warner's only contribution to the dialogue—it wasn't made in my hearing—was alleged to have continued the information that he had a couple of surprise plays for Southern California this year. Judging by the records of recent years, a surprise play for Stanford would be a victory.

The two master coaches of football met here yesterday with Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech to review the situation, of which there is practically none. Later each gave a talk at an informal dinner, with the radio giving ear to the details. It was Rockne's first public appearance in New York in almost two years but, if he is a sick man today, then that wasn't the world that Ajax was carrying around on his neck. It was a cologne. Except for a comparatively slight soreness in the leg that was infected, Rockne is as healthy now as ever he was.

His observations were quite the pungent, vigorous, staccato utterances of the old Rockne. What he demanded, was the only legitimate objection to a shifting team? Warner answered the objection was predicated on the uncertain as to whether there was an absolute lack of momentum at the time the ball was snapped. Whereat Rockne rounded upon him swiftly.

"Is there any momentum in the Notre Dame shift?" he asked and then promptly answered his own question. "No. Is that team shifting laterally capable of momentum, the latter being understood as forward speed? No, again. We at Notre Dame are perfectly willing to come to a full stop after the shift before setting the play in motion. But we do not propose to stand out there, after committing our intention, and tacitly inform our opponents of what we intend to do."

Two Timekeepers.

"That's what I have meant all along when I declared we would have two qualified timers on the sidelines with stop watches. We will abide by the new rule but we don't intend to strike a tableau and thus give a mentally sluggish team a chance to see what is coming up."

"Has anybody ever considered what the shift has done for the small man in football? It has given him an equal chance with the heavyweights, which after all is the letter and spirit of our democracy. Has anybody ever considered what a boon the shift has been to young, immature boys playing high school football?"

Mr. Rockne, now in full stride, was headed for the next jump but Mr. Warner raised a languidly restraining hand.

"You're not arguing with me," said he, patiently. "I'm for the shift—when properly controlled."

It struck me that both could have talked all day without adding further illumination to the subject. Each in his own way—the one, vivid and eloquent; the other, brusque but direct—had said all there was to say on the matter.

The Soda Jerkers handed the New Castle Indies a 9 to 4 setback at Centennial field last night. W. Soho on the hill for the Soda boys let the Indies down with six hits and fanned fourteen men. Pannella allowed twelve hits and fanned thirteen men. Ostroski and Mrozek were the heavy hitters of the game.

Believe McGraw Is Through As Giants Manager

Reports Circulated In New York Say John McGraw Is Serving His Last Year

CHICAGO CUBS INCREASE LEAD

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The Cubs won and maintained a four-game lead in the National League Punch and Judy show but considered more important by some folks today were persistent rumors that John McGraw is managing the New York Giants for his last season. Friction between the Giants' manager and Charley Stoneham, president of the club, has reached a point where a break is inevitable, according to reports on the baseball rattle.

One fact was pointed out as giving plenty of color to the rumors. That was that McGraw did not accompany the Giants on their recent western tour, he was not with them yesterday in Philadelphia and no one understands he is to be at their side in Boston today. It was remarked if McGraw intended to remain with the club no business in the world would keep away from the team for weeks at a time. Those who claim their information about McGraw's finale with the Giants is stronger than a Bermuda onion. Broadened further that Dave Bancroft, who was at the helm when the young men from Broadway climbed so rapidly this summer while McGraw was here, there and yonder, but never with the club, will become the permanent master mind of the outfit.

Root Pitches Well.
Charlie Root's brand of burling pointed the way for the Cubs 8 to 2 crush of the Reds. He allowed only three hits, one a homer by Cuccinello, which was matched with a four bagger by Hartnett of the Bruins.

The pitcherless Phillies trotted out four of their hurling masters but they could not stop the Giants who garnered 25 hits and finally signed off, 18 to 5.

Brandt tossed the sliding Robins to earth 6 to 0, the Boston hurler permitting only four hits. Dazzy Vance had ragged support.

Hodapp's single sent Porter home in the eleventh inning and won for the Indians over St. Louis 4 to 3.

Other clubs were idle.

Local Gridders Enter Duquesne

Two well known grid stars of past New Castle High school eleven left Tuesday for Duquesne College where they have signed to enter. They are Nicholas DeCarbo and Angelo Mooney. These two griders proved a tower of strength on New Castle teams in the three years they were linemen on the football teams.

DeCarbo was a member of Duquesne last year while this is the first year for Mooney as a Duke grider.

The new generation isn't naughtier than the old. It just doesn't wait until it goes to the city.

Muny Golfers In Throes Of Tourney For Course Title

Sixteen Golfers Took Part In First-Round Play; Seven Survivors

Out at the Municipal Golf Course any afternoon you are likely to be following a rather fast twosome, and if you do, it may be one of the course championship matches being played off. To date there are seven survivors. Nine have been eliminated.

Mose Mancine, caddy-master who is directing the tourney along with Manager Walter "Hub" Hart, asks that all second round matches be played not later than Saturday, September 6.

From all indications M. K. Gilliland, former New Castle Field club champion, will ascend to the heights at the Municipal Course in its first year of championship play. R. W. Molesworth and Art Prioletti are the "dark horses."

A consolation tourney has been arranged and these matches announced last night must also be played off before Saturday, September 6.

Following is the results of the eight first-round matches for the course championship:—

Art Nelson defeated Southworth 5 and 4.
Art Prioletti defeated C. M. McFarland 1 up.
Hackett Kennedy defeated W. C. Twaddle 1 up.
W. J. Walsh defeated J. J. McGovern 1 up.
M. K. Gilliland defeated R. F. Davis, 3 and 2.
R. W. Molesworth defeated Elmer Whittaker 2 and 1.

Babe Clark defeated Fred Foster, 3 and 2.

Second Round.
R. W. Molesworth defeated Ollie West 5 and 3.
Other second round matches are:— Art Nelson vs. Art Prioletti.
Hackett Kennedy vs. W. J. Walsh.
Babe Clark vs. M. K. Gilliland.

Tough Grind For Borotra

Jean Borotra, Star French Tennis Player Faces Six Tough Foes

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER
International News Service Sports Writer

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—If Jean Borotra plays Bill Tilden in the finals of the Men's National Tennis championships next week Lady Luck will have to be smiling a lot more kindly upon the "bounding basque" during that seven day period than she was yesterday when the draw for the tournament was compiled.

Borotra will have to win six matches before he enters the last round and five of the six men he will meet on the way are good enough to rate consideration as possible conquerors of the Frenchman.

In his very first match the "bounding basque" will be called upon to brush aside Berkeley Bell of Texas, former intercollegiate champion and ninth ranking player of the country.

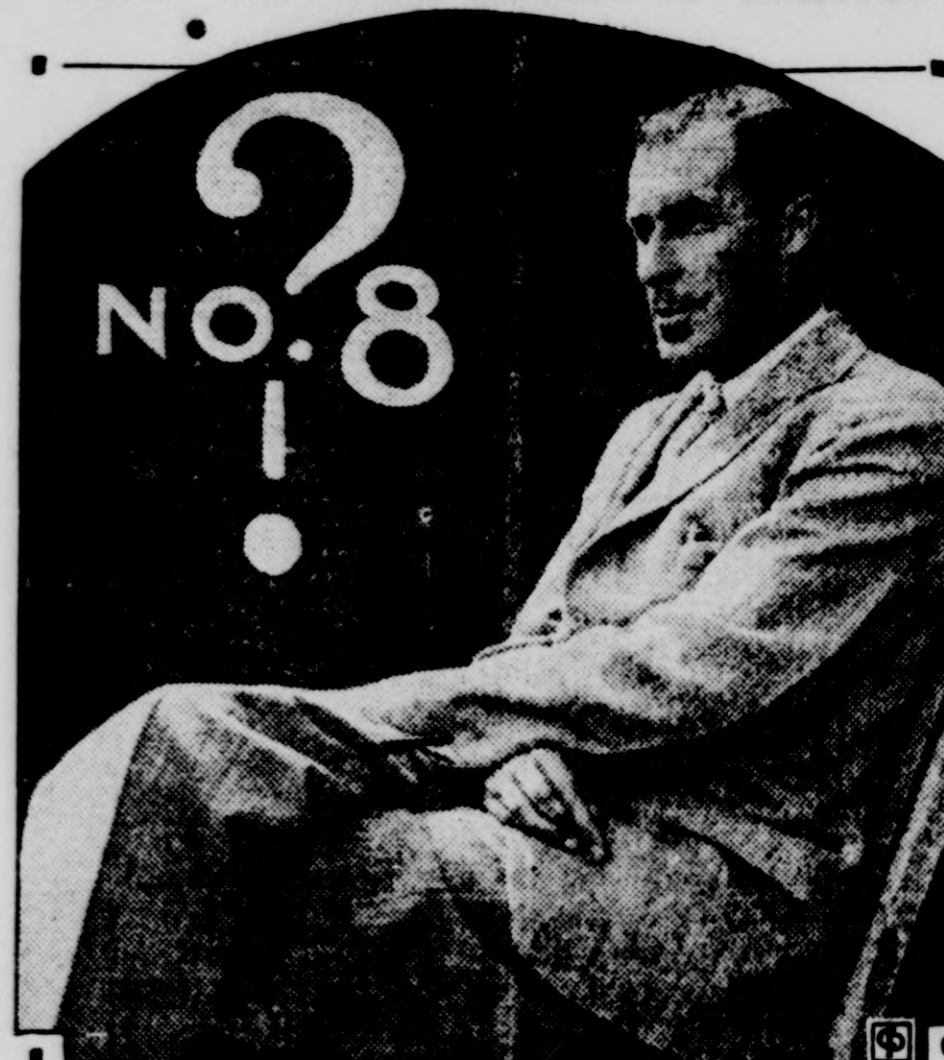

When he finishes with Bell, Borotra will then be called upon to oppose Fritz Mercur, the Bethlehem stylist who tops Berkeley in the ranking by three places.

The lone soft spot in Borotra's schedule comes in the third round, where he will meet Donald Strachan. The Basque's fourth round match will make up for that breathing spell, however. He tackles Cliff Sutter, intercollegiate and eastern champion, in that round. Cliff probably won't beat him—Borotra conquered him in four sets in an exhibition on Monday—but the Southern boy will certainly make him work hard to win.

Senator Hiram Johnson probably will make it tough for the naval treaty supporters if Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht takes that challenge cup back to England this year.—The Walla Walla Daily Bulletin.

Mr. Edison may discover a home supply of rubber for use in time of war, but America will still be helpless without chicle for chewing gum.

CAN BIG BILL MAKE IT EIGHT?

Latest photo of William T. Tilden II, national tennis champion, shows him in meditative mood, probably thinking over his chances to win his eighth national title in the men's singles championship tourney at Forest Hills, L. I. Big Bill won the title in 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1929.

Duff Urges Vets To Back Pension Act In Congress

National Commander Of V. F. W. Praises President Hoover And Administration

MAY DAY URGED FOR PATRIOTISM

President Hoover And Governor Ritchie Review Military Parade Tuesday

Hezekiah N. Duff, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, urged World War veterans to rally to the defense of the recently created World War pension act, in his opening address at Baltimore Monday according to word received by members of the Harry L. McBride Post, from their delegate, Clarence A. Leslie who is in attendance at the sessions.

Commander Duff praised President Hoover and the present administration in his address, stating that to his way of thinking, the present Administration is the best for the overseas veterans which the country has ever had.

He stated that it was not his intention to boost anyone politically, but he wished to say that President Hoover was a man who understood the problems of the overseas veteran in every detail, and that the overseas veteran was due to get many of the recompenses which he has thought all along he was entitled to, during Hoover's administration.

Urges Patriotic May Day
Commander Duff also urged the Vets to follow the lead of the department of New York in holding May Day celebrations to offset radical demonstration. Duff stated that he was not in favor of giving the defamers of this country the advertising and opportunity at martyrdom, which such demonstrations do give them but that a plan could easily be worked out by which May 1 could be used as a day for national patriotic demonstrations without reference to the so-called Reds.

Tuesday afternoon, was marked by a huge parade which was reviewed by President Hoover, Governor Ritchie of Maryland, Mayor Broening and Commander Duff, in addition to other national figures. In addition to Vets and members of the Auxiliary many military organizations from the army, navy, marine corps and Maryland national guard marched in the parade which was a colorful spectacle.

The largest band and drum corps in the parade represented the District of Columbia, with 152 pieces in line. They also boasted five Congressional Medal of Honor Men, as well as the man who selected the Unknown Soldier, Sergeant Frank Withey of the Third Cavalry, Fort Meyer, who acted as bugler at the funeral of Presidents Wilson, Harding and Taft. It was Sgt. Withey, who was a member of the squad which selected the Unknown Soldier at Shalonsburg-Marne on October 24, 1921, when he dropped a rose on one of the caskets lined up before a squad detailed for this purpose.

Today, the visiting Vets are spending in sight seeing trips to various points of interest. This evening they will visit the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Ladies Build Hospital
Members of the Ladies Auxiliary in their initial meeting received reports on the construction of the Ladies Auxiliary hospital at the National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., which is now virtually completed at a cost of $35,000, the entire sum of which has been raised by the Ladies Auxiliary and which will be ready for occupancy early this fall.

So liberally have the ladies entered into the task of building and equipping the hospital, that recently when a linen shower was held for the hospital, enough linen was contributed to last seven years.

Thursday, the Ladies Auxiliary members will visit the U. S. Veterans hospital at Perry Point, nearby, where they take gifts of candy, cigars and fruit to the more than thousand veterans confined there with nervous ailments.

Guardsmen Are Still Seeking Rifle Range

Legal Wrinkle Stands In Way Of Lease; West Side Mounted Range Being Used

While a legal wrinkle is keeping guardsmen of Troop F from leasing the New Castle Mining & Clay Products company grounds between Harlansburg and county line roads, for a rifle range, guardsmen are practicing and qualifying in the mounted pistol practice on a large lot near the troop's west side stables.

The owners of the proposed rifle range location had signed a lease with Lieut. Harvey G. Bintrim, commander of Troop F, but a clause which had been added to the papers delayed acquisition of the grounds. The company will not assume responsibility for any mishap that might occur on the rifle range. Although the troop commander, said he will assume responsibility the owners do not believe that he can be held responsible, it is reported.

A letter written to the U. S. property and disbursing office at Harrisburg recently, requesting for authority to be held responsible in case of mishap, has not yet been answered. Meanwhile nine guardsmen have qualified in the military course for mounted pistol shooting on the west side grounds.

Romance lives again—in these Smocks that turn back the pages of history to those days when gallantry and chivalry prevailed.

The "London Towne" Smock pictures etchings of Merrie Olde England; the "French Empire" Smock portrays the colorful gaiety of that eventful period; and the "Cape Cod" Smock brings back to life the scenes of early New England's rugged coast.

Thus, from cherished by-gone ages comes this new idea in Smock-styling; of inspiring Romance that stirs the heart, and creates the desire to possess and wear these Smocks of alluring lore.

Farm Suggestions From State College

Feed Pullets Grain—Pullets approaching maturity should be encouraged to consume large quantities of grain.

Improved Dairy Herd—Raise heifers from only the very best cows. This is the time to improve the quality of the herd. "Keep down the numbers but improve the quality" is a good motto.

Mow Lawns in Fall—Lawns should be cut during the fall. If the grass is allowed to remain uncut through the winter, the lawn will be rather spotted in the spring and considerable re-seeding will be necessary.

Treat Wheat for Smut—Stinking smut is a costly pest of wheat. Treating the seed with copper carbonate dust will insure a clean crop. Thoroughly mix the grain with two and one-half ounces of dust for each bushel, say State College plant pathologists.

Train the Show Colt—Training the show colt is essential to making a good impression on the judge. Animals that respond to the bidding of the exhibitor stand a better chance to walk off with the blue ribbon than the sulky, balky creatures.

Trees Save Water—This is the year when trees cover, especially evergreen, around the spring has a most beneficial effect. With their tremendous capacity for catching and holding water in the soil, evergreen trees often mean the difference between a flowing and a dry spring. They keep the water cooler, too.

Prepare Laying Houses—Thoroughly repair, clean and disinfect all laying houses before the pullets are confined to winter quarters.

Agiculture warns all who are thus tempted to remember the law passed by the General Assembly in 1925 which makes it larceny to steal farm property and subjects the offender to a fine, not to exceed $500 and possibly imprisonment not exceeding three years.

Stealing such farm property is therefore, no longer a trifling matter.

Stealing Farm Property Is Costly Law Violation

Harrisburg, Sept. 3. — Fall is the most tempting time of the year for autoists and other rural travelers to climb the fence into farm orchards, melon patches, and gardens for a few red apples, melons or juicy peaches. Reports have been received recently where thieves have actually dug potatoes from farm patches. The Pennsylvania Department of

Regional Advisory Board To Convene

Will Meet In Scottish Rite Cathedral In Wheeling On September 11

The Allegheny Regional Advisory Board will hold its Fifteenth Regular meeting in the Scottish Rite Cathedral at Wheeling, W. Va., at 9:30 a. m., on Thursday, September 11th.

The Board's Executive and Railroad Contact Committees will convene in joint session in the Fort Henry Club, Wheeling, W. Va., at 10:00 a. m. on Wednesday, September 10. This is the first of the board's meetings to be held in Wheeling and it is expected that there will be a good attendance.

Particular importance attaches to the forecast of freight car requirements covering the last quarter of this year as compared with the corresponding period of 1929 which will be rendered by the various Commodity Committee Chairmen at the meeting on September 11th.

Hell might be worse. Hot and dry as it is, the inhabitants needn't beg anybody to take a second mortgage on it.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

It almost seemed that nobody bothered much with the old fashioned flowers any more. The newer and showier blooms had the center of the stage and those old time favorites that filled your grandmother's back yard were sort of pushed into the shadows off stage.

At least it seemed that way until this column got a telephone call Tuesday afternoon from C. O. Brest down on North Lafayette street to come down and take a look at the posies. Seeing posies isn't any unusual treat at that, but the gentleman insisted that he had something different from the ordinary run of mine and so I went.

It was worth the trip. Mr. Brest's home is the last one towards the hillside on North Lafayette and that hill isn't anything like the rhododendron covered mountains. It's just a hill, rather ugly if you ask me, but he has transformed it into a bower of beauty.

And all of it with old fashioned flowers. Petunias, thousands of them it seems, four-o'clocks, nasturtiums, snap dragon, hyssopus, asters, portulaca, castor beans, dusty miller, poppies, cannas, with a few zinnias that survived the drought. A riot of color, that seems to swarm all over the hillside in a gay attempt to smother a rather drab piece of hillside.

It meant a lot of work during the weeks when the rain seemed to have over this golden wedding anniversary as they possibly could have been back on that other day. The young folks happen to be Mr. and Mrs. John Cartwright of 933 Temple avenue.

On the 75th anniversary there'll be a dance out in the street, for by that time the descendants of the two will be too many to be housed in one hall.

The goofy golf game seems to be sweeping the country with the deadly effect of an epidemic. Must have seen a hundred new courses in the past couple of weeks, some of them being installed in towns that didn't seem large enough to support a filling station and a grocery store.

Out on the Muddy creek the boys are hard at it, the football lads. Doesn't seem so long ago that they hung up their cleats and moleskins, and here they're back at it again. And it won't be long now, customers, till you hear Ted Fry's whistle announcing that somebody is getting set back five yards for off-side play.
